

A Scottish hunting lodge, gently redecorated to retain its historic charm

The owners of this highlands house restored it using vintage finds, local craftspeople and a palette inspired by the landscape. By Suzanne Imre

For a hunting lodge in the Scottish highlands, the house at Farnham was a somewhat unusual sight. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

Retaining character
The colour palette on the natural stone walls and deep woods of the highlands was a key factor in retaining the house's character. The original Victorian layout was retained, but the interior was completely reworked. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

FIRST STEPS
When Tom and Abigail received the house in 2010, it needed a complete renovation. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

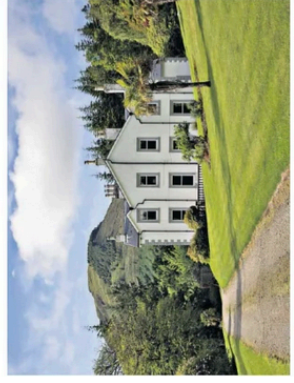

THE SITTING ROOM WITH A VIEW

The long sitting room is the gathering point in the house, with two seating areas and a fireplace. The room was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

TORAS TIPS FOR RESTORING A HISTORIC HOUSE

- Think carefully about how best to use the house
The house is a special place, and it's important to think about how best to use it. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.
- Restore the house
The house is a special place, and it's important to restore it. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.
- Be patient
The house is a special place, and it's important to be patient. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.
- Make the most of the house
The house is a special place, and it's important to make the most of it. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.
- Don't forget the house
The house is a special place, and it's important to don't forget it. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

The house is surrounded by 200 acres of land, including a 100-acre estate.

THE VINTAGE-STYLE DINING ROOM

The dining room, which is painted in a vintage style, features a large table and chairs. The room was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

BARNS AND BILLIARDS

The billiards room features a billiard table and a bar. The room was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time. It was a grand Victorian mansion, built in the 1870s, with a long history of being a family home. The house was built by the 1st Duke of Devonshire, and it was one of the most important houses in the highlands. The house was built in a style that was very different from the houses that were built in the highlands at that time.

