

Genre: Metal / Alternative Metal / Dark Industrial

Location: Los Angeles, CA / London, UK / Berlin, DE

For Fans Of:

dark atmospheres, distorted vocals, heavy,
emotional intensity

allalonealaska is a metal project built on tension, isolation, and controlled chaos - the sound of isolation morphed into fury.

Blending heavy distortion with atmospheric textures, it sits between industrial weight and melodic collapse.

Drawing from raw aggression - modern intensity of Bring Me The Horizon, the industrial edge of Nine Inch Nails, the atmospheric depth of Invent Animate and Deftones's 90's grunge, the project delivers a dark, forward-facing sound.

Created from London's edge, now based in Los Angeles, allalonealaska fuses raw guitars, distorted synths, crushing drums, and haunting atmospheres into something both aggressive and intimate.

Driven by themes of detachment, identity, and survival, each track pulls between extremes; cold, chaotic, and unrelenting.
