| Barriers Encountered | During quarter four, I would say many of the similar barriers were still present. As the COVID-19 protocols stayed the same which allowed for participants to not have to wear a mask unless they were experiencing any contagious illness and of course masks were welcome for any participant who preferred to wear one. CCR&R still has to keep Covid-19 in mind and what the Covid-19 protocols would look like to keep the participants, the trainer, and facilitator safe which included, continuing to disinfection (tables, door knobs, chairs), individual pens to sign-in, and being mindful of how tables are setup. The EPI Deery Center Multi-purpose Room capacity has not changed, currently 25 participants. CCR&R continues to come up with solutions for the barrier of getting participants to not only sign-up for trainings, but getting them to show up virtually and/or in-person. We continue to be thoughtful when it comes time to plan for the upcoming year. We do this by looking at providers need's, provider's topics of interest, what has been offered in the past, and what new trainings are available. All of these help providers/staff more interested in taking on-going professional development through CCR&R which has been made possible by CVP, so thank you. | | | | | | | |
| | During quarter four CCR&R offered over 20 trainings opportunities to accommodate provider's learning styles there were both virtual and face to face training scheduled. Black Hawk specifically has many participants who enjoy the | | | | | | | |

Success Stories

face to face trainings therefore we offered five face to face trainings this quarter and two virtual training. With the new IQ4K system that began in April, it was nice to be able to partner with Iowa State University Outreach and Extension to offer one of the food safety training options that would meet a requirement for level 1 of IQ4K for all programs (Centers, School-age, CDH providers). The Safe Food for a Healthy Future training was a training where participants learned about the FightBac message of Separate, Clean, Cook, Chill and participants were able to get DHS training credit, CACFP credit, and if they choose to participate in IQ4K it will meet that requirement as well.

CCR&R continues to appreciate the CVP funds we receive as they continue to help pay for the face to face and virtual trainings. Along with helping pay for trainer fees, the increase in mileage fees, and provider incentives for specific training topics that allow for child development home providers and child care center staff to implement a new activity, business practice, literacy, and/or health and safety practice to improve the quality of care they provide. Additionally, in quarter 4 we continued to have funds available for more child care centers to apply to get reimbursed for a specific DHS Approved training or CPR First Aid training that a staff member previously completed during the year. We decided that up to 3 staff members per a child care center in Black Hawk County could apply for this training reimbursement program. This training reimbursement program has helped support programs through an application process, obtain a copy of their training certificate, and proof of a receipt. CCR&R is grateful to be able to offer this reimbursement program thanks to the CVP funds. Many programs were thankful for this BH Reimbursement Program, one child care center director emailed their gratitude, "Thank you so much! I really appreciate this and you for heading this program!" CCR&R would not have been able to make this training reimbursement possible without CVP funds.
