Barriers Encountered	Series Training sessions have been tough to get off the ground due to low interest from providers. One major barrier is that providers have to attend these training courses after a full day of work. Additionally, the cost for center staff to take non-mandatory training can be another hurdle. We do have participant's that enroll and don't let us know they are not attending or don't show up, a barrier is they have no investment as our trainings are free. Also, sometimes it is out of the control of a staff/provider if they have something that prevents them from attending training, like a late parent picking up or a staff sick etc. Technology, many platforms, and time
Success Stories	We've had great attendance for our one-time sessions and six-hour Super Saturday trainings. Providers were really excited about the trainings and felt they learned a lot of useful things to take back and use in their programs. These opportunities have also helped providers meet some of their required training hours. Continue to be able to find and contract with engaging instructors to provide high quality training for the child care provider community. Consultants and Regional CCR&R staff spend a good amount of TA time helping providers navigate

the many online platforms where various professional development opportunities are located and how to use and navigate the I-Power Training Registry System.
