Weft Hair Extension MAINTENANCE

WASH YOUR HAIR

Gently wash your hair using the pads of your fingers, moving in a downward motion to avoid tangling or damaging the strands. Take special care to work around the attachment area, ensuring you don't disturb the extensions or adhesive. It's important to be gentle and thorough to maintain the integrity of the application. Remember to wait at least 48 hours after applying the extensions before shampooing, as this waiting period allows the adhesive to properly set and ensures a longer-lasting hold.

NEVER GO TO SLEEP WITH WET HAIR

You can create matting and make your extensions get a mildew smell at the root. Sleep with your hair in a braid.

STYLING TOOLS

Flat irons/curling irons make sure to apply below your extension attachment.

NO SUNSCREEN

NEVER let SUNSCREEN, oils, or tanning products come into contact with your extensions. Put your hair up if it's on your body because it will cause a discoloration to your extensions. Especially BLONDES! Also if any of those products were applied by hand WASH THEM before touching your hair. IF you must wear sun screen product please use a mineral based product that does not contain Avobenzone & Octocrylene

BRUSH 2-3 TIMES A DAY

Brush 2-3 times a day, starting at the ends and working your way up towards your scalp, to prevent tangling. Once each day, section and brush in between each row.

SALT WATER + POOLS 💧

Always get your hair wet first and preferably apply conditioner before entering the water. When you're done swimming be sure to shower out the chemicals right away and blow dry your extensions so your hair doesn't stay wet for too many hours. I do not recommend submerging your hair too often.

RECOMMENDED PRODUCT

Shampoo and conditioner play a crucial role in maintaining your hair extension investment. Opt for sulfate-free products for the best results. Incorporating an oil or leave-in conditioner is essential, and dry shampoo can be quite beneficial. Always choose high-quality hair care brands that are recommended by your trained hair extension expert.
