

COLONEL JOHN C. MCKAY

Consulting Bio

From being reared in Perú and México through an eminently successful, albeit unique, Marine Corps career with often critical contributions, to the fields of U. S. national security policy, counterterrorism, and drug law enforcement, Colonel John McKay has unselfishly served his country. During his career, he amassed an unmatched knowledge of Spanish speaking cultures from West Africa to Spain to Latin America.

From the 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis to the current counter narcotic efforts, Colonel McKay has been exposed to and been an active participant in a myriad of the major international issues that have shaped the contemporary world over the last half-century. His professional expertise, demonstrated leadership, and vast experience of the international arena is augmented by an academic background commencing at the U. S. Naval Academy further enhanced by his selection as an Olmsted Scholar to attend the Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain (all work done in Spanish), and culminating in a MA in government (specialty in national security affairs) from Georgetown University. Colonel McKay received a second MA in national security strategy from the National War College in Washington, D. C.

A published author, accomplished public speaker, and diplomat with singular postings, Colonel McKay brings a wealth of knowledge, considered thought, and inter-personal skills to those individuals, government agencies, and business entities seeking in-depth understanding and appreciation of the current political, military, and business climate in the Spanish speaking world.

The Geneva-based International Organization for Migration, and the American Red Cross cited him for the sensitive and effective managing of a major, very successful, U. S. humanitarian effort. Colonel McKay sits as a member of The George Washington University Libraries Development Advisory Council and is a member of the Board of Directors of the University's recently launched George Washington VALOR (Veterans Accelerate Learning Opportunities and Rewards) program. He is a lifetime member of Disabled American Veterans (DAV) and the Military Order of the Purple Heart. He actively participates as a member of the U. S. Naval Institute of Annapolis, Maryland, the Marines Memorial Club of San Francisco, and The Churchill Centre of Chicago, Illinois.

Since August 2016, Colonel McKay has been an Adjunct Professor in the Department of Geography, College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, at California State University, Sacramento. He instructs in Geography of Latin America at the undergraduate and graduate level.

In addition to teaching, Colonel McKay is working on a book of his memoirs.

Consulting Services

Colonel McKay offers a range of personally attended consulting and advisory services. With special and focused emphasis in areas of national security, international affairs, and regional foreign policy, business opportunities, and leadership consulting services available for the Western Hemisphere and Spanish speaking regions worldwide.

Colonel McKay's extensive experience and up-to-date knowledge of the dynamics and interplay of political forces and national aspirations gleaned over a half century of residing and working in the region affords clients unique expert advice. Language fluency, acute cultural awareness and empathy, and intimate involvement in leading U. S. and indigenous efforts in attaining mutually beneficial outcomes are the keys to promoting and enhancing regional mutually favorable understanding, cooperation, and advantage.

Colonel McKay Contacts

Website:

Bravo748 Speakers Bureau: <https://bravo748.com/col-john-mckay>

Booking Contact:

Bravo748 Speakers Bureau: Jamie@Bravo748.com