I am in full support of the Northern Integrated Supply Project, known as NISP. This plan only makes sense, as it will assure participating water providers in Northern Colorado a reliable supply of water for the future. This is integral not only for the health of irrigated farms and their crops, but for smart, attainable, growth. It's time we utilize a proper storage plan for our state's water supply. Like, comment, and share this post with your friends. I'd love to hear your thoughts. . . .
