2021 Alumni Spotlight: Jonah Medina

In 2018 when Jonah Medina was a sophomore at John Marshall School of Information Technology in Cleveland, Ohio, his principal recommended him for a special TECH CORPS web development project where students built a law firm's website. Jonah enjoyed the experience and signed up for two summers of TECH CORPS' signature web development program, Student WEB CORPS.

Jonah graduated from high school in 2020 and was accepted into the Case Western Reserve University School of Engineering and is majoring in computer science. In 2021, Jonah returned to TECH CORPS as an instructor for Student WEB CORPS. Jonah shared how his TECH CORPS experience prepared him, "My experience with TECH CORPS has given me a strong work ethic. I learned how to stay focused, budget my time, solve problems and be strategic."

With Jonah's experience and training, he has numerous career opportunities available to him including software or web development. He shared, "Because of TECH CORPS, the sky is the limit."
