

Lord Baltimore Women's Club hosts fashion show fundraiser

Coastal Point photos • Submitted

Fashion Show Committee Chairs include, from left, Pat Guy, Kathy Hasara, Mary Henry and Lisa Prisco.

More than 220 women attended the Lord Baltimore Women's Club (LBWC) annual Fashion Show and luncheon on Oct. 16 at Bayside Resort Golf Club, where nearly $10,000 was raised. The event featured fashions from Lete & Co. and Southern Exposure located in Fenwick Island, which were modeled by new and long-standing club members.

The event benefits LBWC's scholarship fund, as well as local schools and education programs, veterans' groups and many various community organizations that give back to the community.

The LBWC expressed thanks to local restaurants and business owners, as well as LBWC members who donated gifts, gift cards and various services that were displayed in the auction baskets.

"LBWC is very proud of our club member volunteers who spent many hours working, planning and organizing this event, and our ongoing community outreach that began over 90 years ago," organizers said.

To learn more about LBWC, as well as the upcoming Valentine's Dance, visit their website at Lbwclub.com.

