Long Island Iced Tea

This stylish drink has been quite a mystery, especially when it comes to the mix of liquors used and it is known to have evolved with time. The origin of Long Island Iced Tea has various stories surrounding it. According to Mixologist Dhanashree Kirdat Puneekar, "The story dates back to 1972, when Robert 'Rosebud' Butt who worked at the infamous Oak Beach Inn on Long Island in New York invented the Long Island Iced Tea as an entry in a cocktail creating contest in order to create a new drink mixed with Triple Sec (liqueur used to add sweetness). It is believed that this concoction was an immediate hit and soon it became the house drink at the Oak Beach Inn."

Ingredients:-

Gin, Vodka, Cointreau, White Rum, Tequila, Pepsi, Lime & Sour Mix

Cosmopolitan

The Cosmopolitan, a stylish pink concoction in a martini glass, was the signature cocktail in the 1990s for Carrie Bradshaw and her "Sex and the City" friends, But before that, it was favoured by Madonna and other celebrities from South Beach to New York to San Francisco. In the 1960s, it was a recipe on Ocean Spray Cranberry Juice bottles, then called the Harpoon. Even further back, a drink that had the same name but very different round-the-world ingredients, thus the name, made the rounds in 1927. Many sources credit today's Cosmo popularity to the mid-1980s and Cheryl Cook, a bartender in Miami who was called The Martini Queen of South Beach. Cook wanted to give the martini a twist that would make it visually appealing and more popular with women; she used Absolut Citron, a new product; Rose's Lime, a little triple sec and cranberry juice to give it the characteristic pink hue.

Ingredients:-

Citron Vodka, Cointreau, Lime and Cranberry Juice

Espresso Martini

There are several claims for the origin of the Espresso Martini. One of the more common claims is that it was created by Dick Bradsell in the late 1980s while at Freds Club in London for a young lady who asked for something that would, "Wake me up, Bradsell has confirmed this in a widely-circulated video Bradsell has also been quoted about the circumstances of his invention of the drink, "The coffee machine at the Soho Brasseries was right next to the station where I served drinks. It was a nightmare, as there were coffee grounds everywhere, so coffee was very much on my mind. And it was all about vodka back then – it was all people were drinking.

The recipes for an Espresso Martini vary depending on the source. Traditionally, they include Kahlua or Tia Maria.

Ingredients:-

Vanilla Vodka, Sugar Syrup, Coffee Liqueur, Espresso shot

Gin Bramble

The Bramble is a cocktail created by Dick Bradsell in 1980s London, England. Best described as a spring cocktail, the Bramble brings together dry gin, lemon juice, sugar syrup, crème de mûre, and crushed ice. Bradsell also suggests finishing off the cocktail with some fresh red fruits (such as blackberries, cranberries) and a slice of lemon. It closely resembles the popular Gin Fix.

If crème de mûre is unavailable, many bartenders will substitute creme de cassis for it.

Ingredients:-

Gin, Bramble Mix, Lime Juice, Sugar Syrup

Mojito

Traditionally, a mojito is a cocktail that consists of five ingredients: white rum, sugar (traditionally sugar cane juice), lime juice, soda water, and mint. Its combination of sweetness, citrus, and herbaceous mint flavors is intended to complement the rum, and has made the mojito a popular summer drink. When preparing a mojito, fresh lime juice is added to sugar (or to simple syrup) and mint leaves. The mixture is then gently mashed with a muddler. The mint leaves should only be bruised to release the essential oils and should not be shredded. Then rum is added and the mixture is briefly stirred to dissolve the sugar and to lift the mint leaves up from the bottom for better presentation. Finally, the drink is topped with crushed ice and sparkling soda water. Mint leaves and lime wedges are used to garnish the glass.

Ingredients:-

White Rum, Lime Juice, Sugar Syrup, Soda

Blueberry Mojito

Traditionally, a mojito is a cocktail that consists of five ingredients: white rum, sugar (traditionally sugar cane juice), lime juice, soda water, and mint. Its combination of sweetness, citrus, and herbaceous mint flavors is intended to complement the rum, and has made the mojito a popular summer drink. When preparing a mojito, fresh lime juice is added to sugar (or to simple syrup) and mint leaves. The mixture is then gently mashed with a muddler. The mint leaves should only be bruised to release the essential oils and should not be shredded. Then rum is added and the mixture is briefly stirred to dissolve the sugar and to lift the mint leaves up from the bottom for better presentation. Finally, the drink is topped with crushed ice and sparkling soda water. Mint leaves and lime wedges are used to garnish the glass. All with the added zestiness of Blueberries

Ingredients:-

Aperol Spritz

The Italian aperitif Aperol was born in Padua in 1919 and created by the Barbieri brothers. The original recipe has remained unchanged over time but it wasn't until the 1950s that Aperol Spritz became a popular alternative to the Venetian mix of white wine and soda. In 2003 the Aperol brand was acquired by Campari Group. The Group positioned Aperol Spritz as 'the perfect drink for social occasions', increasing sales to four times the pre-acquisition levels. A ready-to-enjoy-drink version of the Aperol Spritz was launched by the company in 2011, which contained just 8% of alcohol. This was intended to give consumers a chance to enjoy the drink at home with minimal effort, by simply adding ice and an orange slice.

On June 29th 2012, Aperol Spritz ventured for a Guinness World Record as the 'Largest Aperol Spritz Toast'. More than 2,600 people descended onto Piazza San Marco in Venice and successfully secured the title. On April 16th 2019, the celebration of the Aperol centenary was announced at a press conference in Padua, the birthplace of the brand.

Ingredients:-

Aperol, Prosecco, soda

French Martini

Almost every bartender has had a request for a French Martini. What strikes me odd about this cocktail is that there is not a lot of French in this cocktail. But then again so many cocktails suffer from this problem. The part that makes this cocktail French is the Chambord black raspberry liqueur. The vodka and pineapple juice are not that French, but they do combine nicely in this cocktail, in a martini fashion.

The key ingredient in this cocktail is Chambord, which is made from black raspberries, honey, vanilla and some herbs which has been made for about 300 years in France (since 1685) and is a sweet, all-natural liqueur.

Ingredients:-

Ciron Vodka, Chambord, Pineapple Juice

Disaronno Amaretto Sour

Many believe that the Amaretto Sour was created in America in the 1970s, since this was around the time when Italian spirits and liqueurs were starting to become fashionable in the States. The Italian community had been trying to introduce their drinks into the country for a while, but it seemed that the bitterness of Italian spirits was not that popular amongst the Americans, who preferred their alcohol on the sweet side. The Negroni cocktail, for example, took a little time to hit it off with the public, although, of course, now it is considered to be a classic alongside the greats.

Ingredients:-

Amaretto Disaronno, Sour Mix, Sugar Syrup

Moscow Mule

In 1941, Sophie Berezinski was a woman on a mission. She had immigrated to the United States from Russia and was carrying a heavy burden: 2,000 solid copper mugs. Sophie's father owned and operated a copper factory in Russia known as the Moscow Copper Co. Back in Russia, Sophie had created the design for the original copper mug that is now so famously linked to the Moscow Mule cocktail. Her father ran the presses that stamped out the mugs. The one tool both Sophie and her father lacked was the slick skills of a salesman. Neither Sophie nor her father were able to sell the mugs in Russia, so the decision was made that Sophie and the mugs would journey to America. After all, it was well known that America was the land of opportunity. However, after some time, the mugs seemed destined for the scrap heap in America too. Sophie's husband Max was tired of the copper mugs cluttering the house, and issued her an ultimatum: "Find a buyer for the mugs or I'm tossing them."

Sophie couldn't bear to see the solid copper mugs she had designed and manufactured with her father end up in a landfill. She began desperately seeking out a buyer, walking door to door in Hollywood in search of a restaurant or lounge owner interested in the mugs. During one of her long days in search of a buyer for the mugs, fate intervened at the famous Cock 'n' Bull pub on the Sunset Strip.

Ingredients:-

Vodka, Ginger Beer, Lime Juice

Strawberry Daiquiri

Daiquirí is also the name of a beach and an iron mine near Santiago de Cuba, and is a word of Taíno origin. The drink was supposedly invented by an American mining engineer, named Jennings Cox, who was in Cuba at the time of the Spanish–American War. It is also possible that William A. Chanler, a US congressman who purchased the Santiago iron mines in 1902, introduced the daiquiri to clubs in New York in that year. [Originally the drink was served in a tall glass packed with cracked ice. A teaspoon of sugar was poured over the ice and the juice of one or two limes was squeezed over the sugar. Two or three ounces of white rum completed the mixture. The glass was then frosted by stirring with a long-handled spoon. Later the daiquiri evolved to be mixed in a shaker with the same ingredients but with shaved ice. After a thorough shaking, it was poured into a chilled coupe glass. Consumption of the drink remained localized until 1909, when Rear Admiral Lucius W. Johnson, a U.S. Navy medical officer, tried Cox's drink. Johnson subsequently introduced it to the Army and Navy Club in Washington, D.C., and drinkers of the daiquiri increased over the space of a few decades. It was one of the favorite drinks of writer Ernest Hemingway and President John F. Kennedy.

Ingredients:-

Spiced Rum, Daiquiri mix, lime juice, syrup

Pornstar Martini

The Pornstar Martini started back in 1999 in London, and was created by Douglas Ankrah for Lab Bar," explains Myers. "It's a super simple drink that was created for no other reason than just to create a nice, provocative, tasty drink. The name isn't really based on anyone in particular; it's just more to sort of to bring customers out of their comfort zone."

Ingredients:-

Vanilla Vodka, Passionfruit mix, sugar syrup

After Eight Thirty

Silky, smooth and refreshing – Baileys, crème de menthe and crème de cacao, shaken with cream

Bacardi White Rum

The nose is light and fresh with a little spice and pepper, quite spiry. The palate is of medium-body with hints of tropical fruit and a note of dark brown sugar and winter spice. The finish is good with smooth vanilla spice notes.

Single £3.30 - Double £5.60

Bacardi White Rum Raspberry

A white rum infused with citrus raspberry flavours for an irresistible meeting of sweet and tart. Is it sweet? Is it sharp? Or a mouth-watering combination of the two? BACARDÍ Raspberry is a crisp blend of white rum and citrus raspberry flavours. Try it with berries and lemonade for a refreshing Raspberry spritz.

Ketel One Vodka

The nose on Ketel One Vodka is crisp and clean, and slightly sweet with a hint of lemon. There aren't any fumes and the citrus smells more like lemon than lemon Pledge (which you get from a lot of vodkas). The entry is smooth, soft, and sweet with light citrus and black pepper notes

Smirnoff Vodka

"Smirnoff No. 21 Vodka is fairly neutral on the nose save a few dusty grain notes. The vodka feels soft on the palate with a touch of grain sweetness, but is mostly neutral. A little oily. Finishes clean and a touch spicy. Best served on the rocks or in a cocktail. For those that prefer neutral vodka."

Campari

Campari is a bitter that lives up to its name, which is probably the main reason some find its flavor off-putting. You'll taste notes of grapefruit and orange, spices like clove, a level of herbaceousness, and sweetness. Typically, your sip will start sweet and lightly spicy and end with a lingering bitter bite
