

The Helen Webb Harris Scholarship

Wake-Robin Golf Club, Inc. is proud to sponsor the Helen Webb Harris Scholarship for graduating high school seniors in the Washington Metropolitan area. Our mission is to encourage college-bound minority women in the DC Metropolitan area to participate in the game of golf.

The Wake-Robin Golf Club, Inc. (WRGC) a non-profit 501(c)(3) charitable organization, will commemorate this year 89 years of service in promoting golf for women. Wake-Robin Golf Club (WRGC) invites you to apply for the Helen Webb Harris Founder's Annual Scholarship. WRGC is a minority women's golf club founded in 1937 by Helen Webb Harris. It is the oldest Afro-American women's golf club in the United States.

Helen Webb Harris and twelve other women—several of whom were married to members of the all Black male Royal Golf Club. (circa-1934)-formed the Wake-Robin Golf Club of Washington, DC. Even though it was difficult for African Americans of either sex to be accepted into the golfing world at that time, it was twice as hard for African American women to participate in the game of golf. There was but one public golf course in Washington, DC - the Lincoln Memorial Golf Course (West Potomac Park) that allowed African American players. The women, early pioneers of golf, were determined and not to be deterred from playing the game of golf. The love of the game as well as the women's tenacity proved to be the catalyst for establishing the Wake- Robin Golf Club.

The Helen Webb Harris Scholarship honors the memory of Helen Webb Harris, the first President of the Wake-Robin Golf Club, Inc.
