GRAIN BIN HAZARDS

According to the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), grain handling is a high-hazard industry and workers can be exposed to risks such as fires and explosions, suffocation from engulfment and entrapment in grain bins, falls from heights, and crushing/amputation injuries from grain handling equipment. Tragedies can occur when workers walk on moving grain, which acts like quicksand, or when they attempt to clear grain bins. Moving grain can bury a worker in seconds. Grain dust explosions are also a high-risk element of working with grain. Grain dust is combustible and will burn or explode if exposed to an ignition source.

WHY SO MUCH BEEF IN NEBRASKA?

Nebraska has a unique mix of natural resources. Cattle turn grass from 24 million acres of rangeland and pasture, more than one half of Nebraska's land mass, into protein and many other products for humans. The land grazed by cattle allows more people to be fed than would otherwise be possible. More than one billion bushels of corn are produced here each year, 40% of which is fed to livestock in the state. Cattle producing families, who make their living from the land, have a strong incentive to protect their animals and the environment.

Life is Great...Agriculture Makes it Possible.

Thank You Beef Producers!

We salute your hard work, dedication and commitment.

Stuart Silver Fox Ranch

Stuart, Nebraska

Jerry Penry

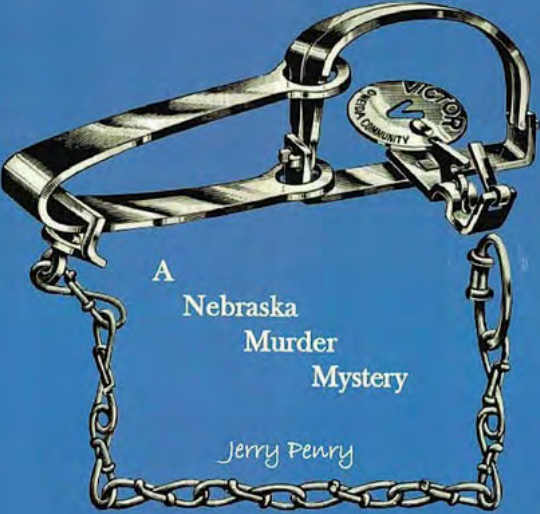

Preface

With the passage of more than seventy years since it closed, the former Silver Fox Ranch that was once located nine miles north of Stuart, NE, has mostly slipped into obscurity. From newspaper accounts of the late 1920's and into the 1940's, it was portrayed as being a truly magnificent operation. It put Stuart on the map as being the largest facility of its kind in the entire Midwest.

The sole purpose of the ranch was to raise silver foxes as well as a lesser number of coyotes, rabbits, and mink for their fur. The intent was not done to produce warm clothing, but rather for the sale of valuable and highly sought luxury apparel.

Tragedy on the Trapline

A Nebraska Murder Mystery
Jerry Penry

A sensational true story murder mystery that took place in rural Holt County, Nebraska.

Two trappers formed a partnership to trap wild animals as a winter source of income. One was a well-known local Holt County man, while the other was a mysterious outsider from Wisconsin. After they departed in the spring of 1932, the local man was later found dead under suspicious circumstances...

The murder was pinned on the outsider who then fought to save his own life from the death penalty. Did he really do it? Was this even a murder? The expensive trial nearly left the county bankrupt...

EVERY DAY, NEBRASKA EXAMINER journalists work tirelessly to hold government officials to account and report on how state policies affect Nebraskans – and there could hardly be a time when such journalism is more crucial. Guiding our newsroom is a simple command: Dogged. Principled. Dedicated to Nebraska news. Nebraskans want accountability from their elected officials and government. They want to know whether their tax dollars are being well-spent, whether state agencies and local governments are responsive to the people and whether officials, programs and policies are working for the common good. The Nebraska Examiner is a nonprofit, independent news source committed to providing news, scoops and reports important to our state..... 10ctf
