

If you have a creek or bayou that looks anything like this ,you have a severe drainage, navigation and political problem.If all of your solutions have hit a dead end when it comes to getting something done with a mess like this your worries are not far from going away.

Through lots of trial and error we at Excavation Technologies worked with the Galveston County Consolidated Drainage District to devise a system of how to get the Army Corp of Engineer,local government,environmental groups and the general public to agree on a solution for these problems.With a lot less effort and money than one may think we can take the above mess and make it look like this picture below.
