New Hire: Youth Services Coordinator

HINESVILLE, Ga. (April 27, 2026)- The City of Hinesville has hired Erin Hendricks to fill the position of Youth Services Coordinator. This position will lead youth leadership initiatives and enhance the profiles and opportunities of younger citizens.

Prior to joining the City of Hinesville, Hendricks served as the Liberty County Extension Coordinator and 4-H Youth Development Agent with the University of Georgia. In that role, he led programs in leadership, STEM, agriculture, healthy living, and civic engagement while maintaining an annual budget.

Erin's professional background also includes experience as an educator and coach at Jasper County High School, as well as youth leadership and student development roles with the Children's Defense Fund, the University of Tennessee, and the University of Georgia Athletic Association.

Throughout his career, he has remained committed to empowering young people and strengthening communities through education, leadership, and service.

The Youth Services Coordinator is a new position that was approved by City Council.
