

3 Reasons to Report Idling Diesel Trucks

1 Protect Children's Health

Diesel exhaust exposure harms children's developing lungs, increasing risks of asthma, respiratory infections, and even cancer.

2 Protect Community Health

Diesel exhaust is classified as carcinogenic to humans (IARC 2012). 70% of California's known cancer risk from toxic air contaminants is linked to diesel emission

3 Reduce Pollution

Diesel trucks and buses in California cannot idle for more than 5 minutes, especially near schools, homes, and hospitals.
