About Us: Here at Nu Know, we are on a mission to help improve the well-being and safety of young people across the UK. We do this by making reliable education and support more accessible to the parents and carers of adolescents and pre-adolescents.

We deliver research, workshops and support around adolescent development and the social issues affecting young people in our ever-changing society.

Role Activities:

- Facilitate one-to-one and small group (2-4 participants) sessions for parents and carers related to your area of expertise. Sessions are usually conducted online.
- Prepare concise follow-up reports to encapsulate the key insights and outcomes from the delivered sessions.
- Engage in relevant Nu Know network training and stay updated with good practice methods and developments in your field.

Person Specification:

- A demonstrated passion for the well-being, safety, and development of youth (aged 8-19)
- Genuine compassion for addressing the societal challenges confronting young people.
- Holds the relevant qualifications and/or professional certificates for your discipline.
- Minimum of 5 years relevant experience in your field, showing proficiency and depth of knowledge.
- Proficiency in articulating complex concepts related to your field of work/area of interest to diverse audiences and members of the public.
- A quick-thinking problem solver and critical thinker, capable of leveraging their expertise to provide timely and accurate information.
- Proficient in utilising Microsoft Office Suite (Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Outlook, etc) and other relevant programmes such as Zoom.
- Strong organisation and ability to independently manage online sessions efficiently and effectively.

Benefits:

- Flexible working hours and time commitment.
- Hourly compensation of £40ph (£20 for half-sessions).
- Access to training courses, cross-network learning experiences and other CPD opportunities.
- Connect with other field specialists.
- Priority consideration for additional projects and assignments as they become available - These may include conducting desk-based research to support resource and content creation, reviewing and contributing to resources, and leading more extensive group workshops online/in person.
- For researchers – Valuable public engagement and research dissemination opportunities.
