Hello friends,

We are so excited about your interest in becoming a sponsor of The Chris Ewing Classic presented by Barstool Sports. A great deal of hard work, creativity and dedication has gone into the planning and production of this event, honoring my late husband, Chris.

On October, 5 Chris passed so suddenly. Shocked by his passing, many of his friends were saddened when they weren't able to say goodbye. That friend circle is large and wide; spanning from Texas, Louisiana, Florida and Kentucky reaching all the way to Ireland. Many expressed a desire to get together and celebrate Chris and in that the idea of this golf event was born. Of course, if they were to toast Chris appropriately, the event had to include golf, gambling, good food and beverages.

So, we proudly present to you, The Chris Ewing Classic presented by Barstool Sports. We've planned two days of golf, food and fun to celebrate the memory of my husband. We guarantee a good time for sure.

Chris and I have been strong supporters of Rebuilding Together Baton Rouge for years. With Chris's blessing, I have volunteered over 1000 hours a year in many roles for the past six years. RTBR is a national non-profit offering free home repairs to older, veteran and disabled low-income homeowners. Our home repair services are aimed at allowing elderly or disabled low-income homeowners to stay in their homes longer. We focus on helping those most vulnerable to the rising cost of living and falling social service budgets. There are many local non-profits focusing on children, we feel like the elderly and veterans get overlooked oftentimes.

We are the only organization in Baton Rouge providing services of this nature to the community. To date, we have completed 500+ projects with a cumulative market value of over $4,000,000 -- all completely free to the homeowners. The annual operating budget of RTBR is $500,000 -- so that is our target goal for The Chris Ewing Classic.
