What We are Learning

Black History Month

This month, we celebrate Black History Month—a time to learn about and honor the many contributions of Black leaders, artists, inventors, and everyday heroes who have helped shape our world. In our classrooms, we will explore themes of kindness, fairness, courage, and community through age-appropriate stories, music, art, and discussions. We are excited to help our students learn that our differences make us special and that everyone's story matters
