7. Medical Director’s Report

Flu – PHDM is into flu season, currently Michigan is rated regional; we have not been hit full force like other areas of the country. The vaccine is a good match, the majority of the cases are proving to be the H1N1. Nation-wide there have been 11 pediatric deaths, one in downstate Michigan.

Romaine Lettuce E.coli Outbreak – As of January 1, 2019 the outbreak was officially over. Cases spanned 16 states and Canada and was identified as E.coli 0157; there were 62 sick, 2 with kidney failure and no deaths.

In the case of E.coli 0157, kidney failure can occur; infection can be transmitted through contaminated food or water, symptoms usually occur 3-4 days after exposure.

Thru the coordinated efforts at the local, state and national levels this outbreak was tied to romaine lettuce which was traced back to the central valley in California. Romaine lettuce produced outside this area was safe to eat. Genetic testing was conducted at area farms and the CDC traced the E.coli 0157 back to water and sediment samples at a specific farm in Santa Barbara County, California.

This is just one of many examples of communicable disease (CD) surveillance occurring daily across the United States. CD surveillance is an activity most citizens know little about until an outbreak occurs.

8. Health Officer's Report
