We need to advise of a price adjustment on plantain snacks, effective Aug. 22, 2025

The country of origin (Ecuador) has been struggling with abnormal weather conditions that deleted crops earlier in the year and now the rainy season strains normal growth.

Due to the production levels of fresh plantains going down over 30%, growers have increased prices of raw product over the past months, which we can no longer absorb.

To secure the necessary volumes to manufacture the plantain snacks, we must support grower's needs to increase and maintain a flow of shipments.
