

About PBND Netball Skills and Clinics

In 2019 there was a review of the game of netball; there are less than 1% of players whom identify as Aboriginal.

One common theme was shared by these two historic initiatives: the lack of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander athletes in netball's elite levels. First, the numbers. Registered players in 2019 who identified as being of Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander descent totaled 20,849 (or approximately 5% of the total 2019 netball participants; compared with the nationally identified parity of 3.3% in the Australian population).

Through participation within the junior competitions within Randwick Netball Association and St George Netball Associations, it is the goal of the coaches to support players along side their normal training sessions to build their confidence, skills and self esteem.

These training sessions and development programs will provide access to an informed culturally humility approach to sharing information and resources with our participants and their parent/s. These sessions are an opportunity for the coaching staff to analyse current techniques, provide subject matter advice, expertise and input about the player individual development.

Accreditation and WWCC

All our coaching members are involved in a voluntary position. They are required to hold a current and valid working with children check. A verification will be completed and placed on file to ensure adherence to the OCG WWCC standards.

Member Protection / Child protection policy

PBND Netball Skills and Clinics holds in high regard the rights and protection of the children whilst in their care. Child Protection is everyone's business, and it is about keeping all children safe from abuse or harm. We take it very seriously when protecting them from people who are unsuitable to work with children. We do need to work together to ensure there isn't any complacency happens.

PBND Netball Skills and Clinics has adopt and governed by the NSW Netball Association Ltd Child Protection Policy.
