Second Sunday of Advent
December 7, 2025

First Reading: A reading from the prophet Isaiah (pronounced: eye-zay-uh)

This is what the prophet Isaiah (eye-zay-uh) said to the people of Israel about a child who will be born in the family of Jesse (pronounced: jess-see)

"This child will be filled with the Spirit of God,
the spirit of wisdom and understanding,
the spirit of strength and truth,
the spirit of knowledge and love of God.

The One who is coming will not judge by what people look like
or by what others say,
but will judge the poor with justice and fairness.

Then the wolf will live with the lamb,
the leopard (lep-herd) and the goat will rest together.
The calf and the lion will eat together and be at peace,
and a little child will lead them all.
This child will be a sign for all the world.
Then no one will hurt others anymore,
because everyone will know God."

Second Sunday of Advent

December 7, 2025

RESPONSE: For all that you do, we worship you.

For all that you do, we worship you.

You will bring justice and peace.

For all that you do, we worship you.

You save the weak and the poor.

For all that you do, we worship you.

We praise the good that you do.

For all that you do, we worship you.

People will know of your name.

For all that you do, we worship you.

Second Reading: A reading from the Letter of St. Paul to the Romans.

Brothers and sisters: Whatever was written before, was written for all of us, that by believing and trusting in the Scriptures, we might have hope.

May the love that God shows for each of us, help you to love one another.

Jesus taught us to have one voice to glorify God, who is the father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Welcome one another as Jesus welcomed you, for the glory of God.

Jesus came, not just for some, but for all of us.

Together, let everyone on earth give praise to his holy name.
