2. Rule 54(b) - No Just Reason for Delay:

- Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 54(b), when multiple claims or parties are involved in an action, the Court may direct the entry of a final judgment as to one or more, but fewer than all, claims or parties only if the Court expressly determines that there is no just reason for delay.

- The Court has resolved all claims between the Plaintiff and the Defendants listed above. There are no remaining issues requiring further adjudication between these parties.

3. Submitted Evidence:

- The Plaintiff has submitted all necessary facts and evidence to the complaint, including admissible victim statements and supplemental documents. These submissions support the Plaintiff's claims and justify the relief granted by the Default Judgment. The evidence has been reviewed and found sufficient to support the entry of final judgment.

- The expeditious entry of final judgment in this matter serves the interests of judicial economy and avoids unnecessary delays in the enforcement of the Court's ruling.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff Christina Clement respectfully requests that this Court:
