

Email: reneet@strategicsiteselection.com

Language spoken: English

As a passionate member of the hospitality industry, Renee's number one goal is the satisfaction of her clients. She is always striving to make sure that any one she works with is happy by collaborating to meet their goals together. Renee believes that relationship-building is key in working in this industry. Making someone feel truly at home and in good hands is something she leverages, as that skill comes naturally to her.

Renee is a driven team-player who wants to see everyone win and will always jump in to lend a helping hand. When Renee is not working, she is teaching the next group of hospitality professionals, binge watching Netflix cooking, baking, crafting, or spending time with her family.

What are your hidden talents? My #1 hidden talent is that I'll make it before I buy it! I craft a lot year-round (hence the scissors). I've made teacher gifts, birthday décor for the kids, or pretty much anything I see and don't want to buy because I feel I could make it much better. Favorite thing I've made? Cake toppers and birthday invitations for my daughter's birthdays. If you need something custom let me know wink

You must sing karaoke, what song do you pick? Single Ladies. Does it matter that I'm not single? It's still Single Ladies.

Are you more productive in the mornings, afternoons or evenings? Why? Is "anytime I'm alone" a time of day? But seriously with a busy household of 3 kids and a husband with varying levels of needs, if the house is empty, you can expect me to be productive morning, noon and night!