

Lee A. Wright is a pastor, author, Air Force veteran, and nationally available speaker who equips individuals and organizations to lead with integrity, live with purpose, and build legacies that honor God. With decades of leadership experience in the United States Air Force, pastoral ministry, and executive leadership, Lee brings a unique blend of biblical wisdom, practical leadership principles, and authentic storytelling to every audience.

A survivor of the 1996 Khobar Towers bombing in Saudi Arabia, Lee shares a powerful message of resilience, faith, and hope, demonstrating how God can transform life's greatest challenges into opportunities for growth and purpose. As the founder of The Journey of a Godly Man (JOAGM), he is passionate about developing strong leaders, healthy families, and men of character who positively influence their homes, workplaces, churches, and communities.

Whether speaking at churches, conferences, corporate events, military organizations, or leadership summits, Lee's engaging presentations inspire audiences to lead courageously, serve faithfully, and leave a legacy that outlives them.