

Meanwhile at the jelly factory something unusual was happening.
Mr Jolly the manager went into work on a Saturday.
He did not normally work on a Saturday but he did not like the thought of jelly being sold out in Jellytown.

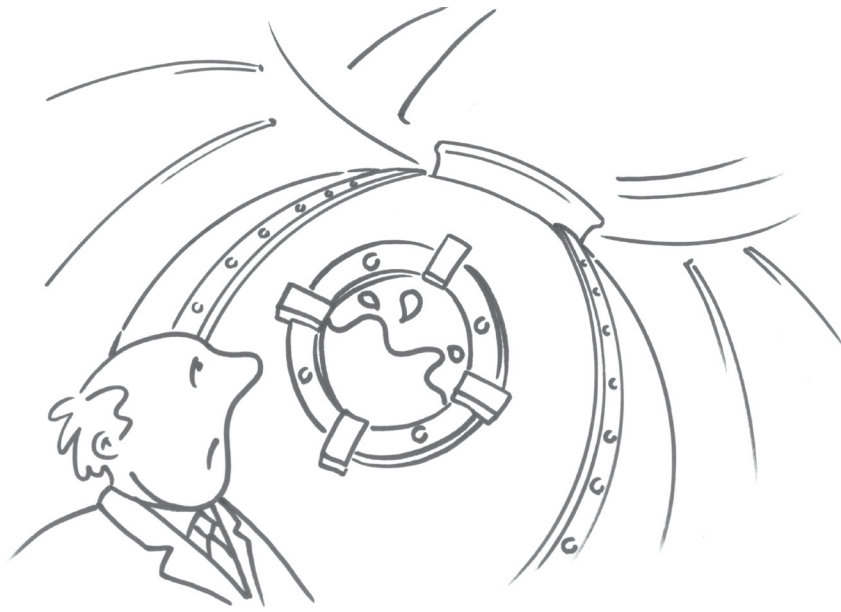

He decided to make three of the most popular colours - yellow, red and green. As he was on his own he had to run around and check each container.

The only item he could not tick off was jelly as Jellytown had sold out of jelly.
His mum could see he was upset. She turned to him and said "Don't worry we can still have a good party without jelly."

Jimmy's mum went outside and gave all the children a plate to catch the jelly. The children sang,
Jelly on the plate Jelly on the plate
Wibble Wobble Wibble Wobble
Jelly on the plate.

All the lids were bouncing up and down and the jelly was bubbling, bubbling and bubbling. Mr Jones was getting worried.

Then there was a huge bang and the lids shot off the containers.
10 The jelly went up through the roof and shot up into the air.

Jimmy's mum was fed up of children asking for jelly that she told Jimmy to take his friends to play in the garden. 7

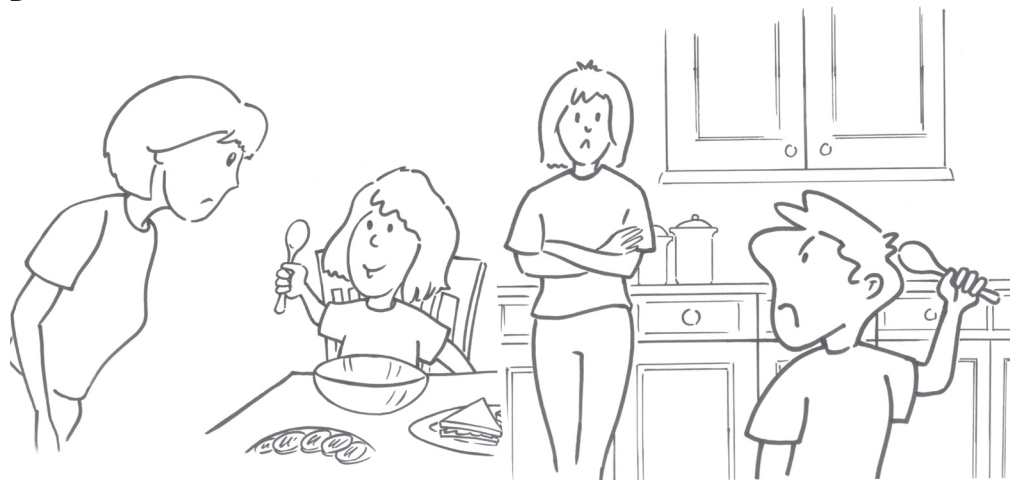

Then Jenny Jones said "Mum we haven't sang Happy Birthday to Jimmy yet. Where is the birthday cake?"

Jimmy's mum said "Oh no I forgot to buy a cake!"

On Friday Jimmy went shopping for his birthday party. He took his shopping list of everything he needed.

As Jimmy walked round the supermarket he put a tick against each item on his list as he put it in his basket. 3

Although there was plenty of food one girl said to Mrs Jones,
"Please may I have some jelly?"

Mrs Jones said, "I am very sorry but we haven't got any."

A cheeky boy said:

"Got any jelly?" He did not even say please. When he realised there was no jelly he walked away saying:
"What kind of party is this with no jelly!"

When the jellies were up in the air they started to set.
There were jumbo sized yellow, red and green clouds floating over Jellytown.

Jimmy was very excited as it was nearly his birthday.
He gave out invitations for his party to his friends.

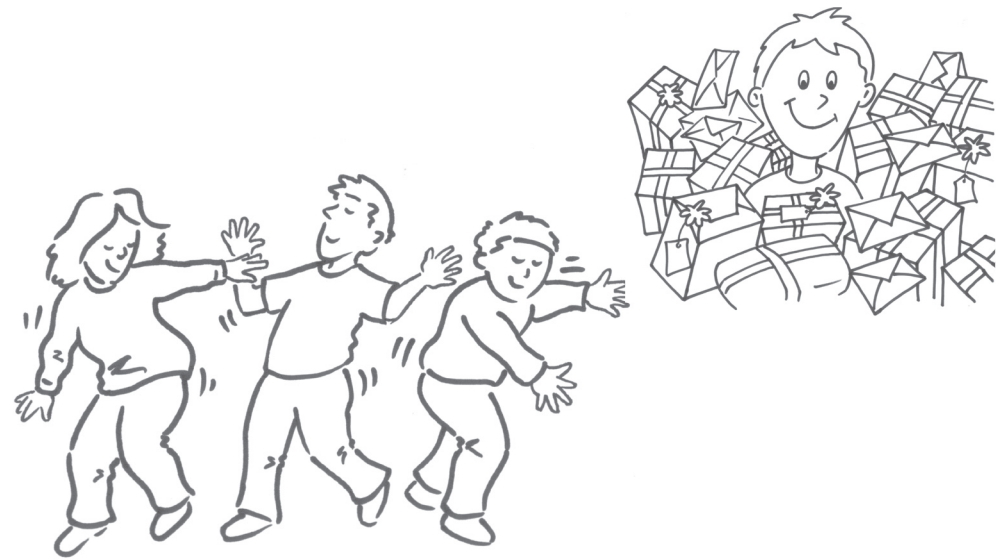

Just then she had a good idea.
She ran out in the garden and collected jelly in a bowl.
She turned over the bowl of jelly and placed candles around.
All the children were surprised to see the Jelly cake.
Everyone sang Happy Birthday to Jimmy.

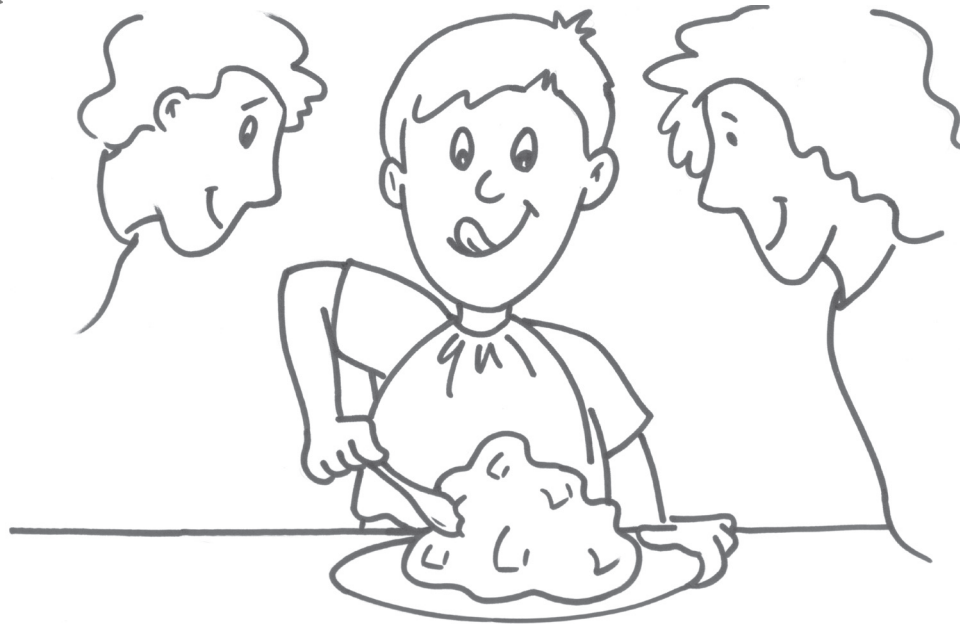

It started to rain. Well the children thought it was rain and began to run inside the house.

Then Jimmy shouted,
"It's not rain it's jelly. Mmmmm ....it's lovely."

Saturday was the day of the of the party.
His friends arrived with lots of presents. Jimmy was very happy.
Everyone enjoyed playing their favourite party games and dancing.
After the dancing the children sat at the table for their tea party.

What had started off as a party without any jelly ended up as The Surprise Jelly Party.

JELLYTOWN

The Surprise Jelly Party

Welcome to Jellytown.