Espresso Based

Espresso, originating in Italy, is a special way a coffee bean is treated, ground more finely, and at the time of ordering, then packed into a portafilter, where hot steam is force through the espresso to make a shot. We pride ourselves on using the traditional method and not automating this process. So for a good espresso based drink, we ask you to practice patience as it will take a few minutes, to grind, and express the shot. So have a seat and enjoy the music.

Espresso - Double Shot 3.75

Pure espresso, no additives.

Americano 3.75

the USA is one of a few countries that brews coffee with a drip coffee brewer. If you order a coffee in another country they usually just make you an espresso shot and add water. As such a shot of espresso with hot water is an "Americano".

Capuccino 5.25

Similar to latte with the exception of the portions of foam and milk are different. Being 1/3 espresso, 1/3 steamed milk, 1/3 milk foam.

Mocha 5.95

This "dirty" Ghirardelli hot chocolate is made with dark Ghiradelli chocolate, steamed milk or white Monin chocolate syrup and a shot of espresso.

Cortado 4.75

This tiny little drink is equal parts 1:1 espresso with steamed milk and is served in a small glass or cup.

Flat White 4.75

This tiny little Australian thing is 1/3 ristretto (longer espresso shot) and 2/3 steamed milk.

Machiato 4.75

this tiny drink translates to "marked or stained" it's a shot of espresso with a layer of steamed foam, allowing the power of the espresso to still shine through. P.S. A "Caramel Macchiato" is not what you think, see Lattes for the real truth.
