Trauma & Dissociation Informed Internal Family Systems with Joanne H. Twombly, MSW, LICSW

Integrating IFS with the wealth of knowledge from the C-PTSD and dissociation world is where the power and healing are for clients with C-PTSD and Dissociative Disorders. If you or your client is getting worse, struggling during the week, and needs more and more support from you, this retreat style workshop can help by integrating dimensions into the already excellent framework of standard IFS.

You will learn to give your clients a chance to have more safety, control, and choices by helping them develop coping skills and learning how to titrate witnessing. They will heal more comprehensively and more efficiently by missing problems like increased anxiety, backlash from overwhelmed parts, excess difficulty managing during the week, and increased risk of self-destructive behaviours. Although, not every client will need the strategies and knowledge taught during this retreat, it's practical to be able to recognise when your clients need them and how integrating them can be extremely beneficial.

Joanne H. Twombly, MSW has extensive experience in working with complex PTSD and Dissociative Disorders and has adapted EMDR and Internal Family Systems for use with people with these disorders. She was on the board of the International Society for the Treatment of Trauma and Dissociation (ISSTD), is a co-author of ISSTD's 2011 Treatment Guidelines for DID, and is a past president of the New England Society for the Treatment of Trauma and Dissociation. She was awarded ISSTD's Distinguished Achievement Award in 2010. Joanne has published articles in clinical journals and book chapters on DD and EMDR, on EMDR and IFS, and on working with Perpetrator Introjects. Her award-winning book is entitled: Trauma and Dissociation Informed Internal Family Systems. She has a private practice in Arlington, MA where in addition to her work with clients she provides consultation and training.
