Self-taken photography that undergoes mirroring & editing in post-processing results in visually intriguing & surreal images.

By mirroring the photograph, symmetrical compositions are created, enhancing the balance & symmetry of the scene.

Post-processing techniques such as color manipulation, texture overlays, & selective lighting adjustments can further enhance the mood & atmosphere of the image.

This process often transforms ordinary photographs into captivating artworks, blurring the line between reality & mirroring the photograph, symmetrical compositions are created, enhancing the balance & symmetry of the scene.

The final result is a series of unique & mesmerizing images that reflect my creative vision.
