

S. Rénā + Co.

EDITORIAL BOUTIQUE

Shaundale Rénā Johnson
4621 S. Cooper Street
Suite #359
Arlington, TX 76017
817-984-0602

ATTN: Gayl Crump Swaby
New Generation Consultants

Wednesday, April 13, 2022

Re: *Unlocking Legacies and Releasing Burdens

Dear Gayl,

I have finished reading Unlocking Legacies and Releasing Burdens, and I really enjoyed it. I am always pleased by authors who teach me something new, and this book is full of information. I also commend you because this manuscript is so well-written. I get a sense of your passion for your work in this space. Now, for the good stuff!

You are teaching us that it is very necessary that people get this information and let it sink in—all people. You took your time making sure we understand, and so far, you are spot on. (I'm a witness!) You touched on so many relevant parts of life as an African-American, as a female, and as a generational curse-breaker. I cheered for you on many levels. I wanted you to get the clarity that needed to come through, but I also wanted you to experience an emotional breakthrough. When you finally broke down and cried (after your counseling session), the only thing I wanted to know was why. Why did you finally cry after counseling when you hadn't cried for your dad or your brother passing? (Pg. 69) Tell us that part in detail. You merely scratched the surface.

Unlocking Legacies and Releasing Burdens shows us that life is not purely about what we