

JANET R. MARTIN

VOCALIST/SONGWRITER

Janet R. Martin is an international award-winning vocalist, songwriter, speaker, and Nashville recording artist whose music blends heartfelt country storytelling with faith-filled depth and authenticity. An Air Force veteran, five-time national winner and performer at the National Veterans Creative Arts Festival, and 2026 Josie Music Awards nominee for Female Multi-Genre Vocalist of the Year and Songwriter Achievement of the Year, Janet brings a grounded presence, emotional honesty, and genuine connection to every performance, resonating with audiences across both country and faith-based platforms.

A nationally performing artist, Janet has brought her music to audiences across the country, from intimate listening rooms and churches to festivals, large venues, and iconic stages. Her career includes opening for and sharing the stage with respected artists such as Brad Paisley, Reba McEntire, Darius Rucker, Tracy Byrd, Tracy Lawrence, and Neal McCoy, as well as performing alongside the legendary Mickey Gilley. Her versatility and powerful stage presence have also led her to notable performances, including a recent appearance at Carnegie Hall.

Rooted in country and gospel, Janet's original music is shaped by a lifetime of diverse performance experience, from choirs and big bands to dynamic solo performances. She has recorded music across the country, including in Nashville, Boston, Alaska, St. Louis, New Orleans, Mobile, and New Mexico, developing a sound that is both polished and deeply personal. Her music has received radio airplay and has been added to Spotify playlists, allowing her to connect with listeners far beyond the stage.

Janet is currently preparing the release of a new EP that reflects her heart for storytelling, her country roots, and her commitment to creating music that encourages, uplifts, and connects.
