3.5 Million

The number of unfilled jobs leveled off in 2022, and remains at 3.5 million in 2023, with more than 750,000 of those positions in the U.S. Industry efforts to source new talent and tackle burnout continues, but we predict that the disparity between demand and supply will remain through at least 2025.
Problem Solved

Our mission is to ensure that these positions are occupied by individuals who are driven, knowledgeable, and determined to enter the industry.
