

About Us:

At F.A.I.T.H. Connection Center, we serve as a compassionate resource hub for families in crisis—offering essential support, healing, and hope. We provide basic necessities such as diapers, wipes, clothing, and shoes for children under age 5, along with women’s apparel. In addition, we connect families to local organizations to ensure they can access referrals and resources that meet their immediate needs.

But we don’t stop at survival—we are deeply committed to personal and spiritual development, helping individuals and families heal, grow, and thrive through long-term transformation.

Who We Serve:

We uplift and advocate for Black Indigenous peoples across the globe, including:

- Black Indigenous Americans (Black Americans)
- Black Indigenous Caribbeans, Latinos, Arabs, Asians, Europeans, Africans)
- Other historically rooted Black Indigenous communities impacted by domestic violence

While these communities are our primary focus, all women and their children experiencing domestic violence, trauma, poverty, or hardship are welcome and supported with compassion and dignity.

Our Mission:

To honor cultural identity, amplify marginalized voices, and provide access to faith-based empowerment, economic resources, and social justice. Through education, entrepreneurship, healing, and community-building, we aim to create a global network where Black Indigenous identity is celebrated and strengthened.

Our Vision:

Founded in 2024, F.A.I.T.H. Connection Center was created with a deep commitment to supporting families in need and making a lasting, transformative impact on their lives. Our vision is rooted in faith, compassion, and the belief that every individual deserves the opportunity to build a brighter, more equitable future.

Through our work, we seek to:

- Break cycles of abuse
- Promote healing and wholeness
- Empower families to thrive spiritually, emotionally, and economically
- Create generational change and legacy

We are more than just a resource—we are a lifeline of support and a catalyst for transformation.
