

After earning a bachelor's degree from Rice University in Houston, Paul Brewer chose a career as an entrepreneur. Paul has owned and operated an insurance company, a rental car agency, an airport parking facility, a tour boat, a commercial real estate business and he found time to homeschool his sons and teach a financial class in his community. When his youngest son started college, Paul realized his true passion in life had always been teaching. Paul sold his business and now tutors our students individually and teaches our STEM robotics and coding class.
