

Descended From The Royal House of...

de Vere von Drakenberg

by Amarushka
Sedona's Dragon Kin
July 2012
from Amarushka Website

Crest of Drakenberg Clans

The Family Bloodline House Crests of de Vere von Drakenberg

Alchemical Blood Divinity
The Alchemical Dragon Hermetic King and Queen Unified

I am the Hermetic King resurrected from the sepulcher of the Nigredo.

My fire has been drawn out of the darkness;
purified and exalted.
My expansive fire is Solar by nature and I am called the Son of the Sun.
I am the purified and exalted fire of your soul. I am the solar radiance of your consciousness and the true Gold of the philosophers.
Blessed are they who have assimilated the inner most nature of this most adorable Fire!

The Family Houses Of Descent

1. The House of De Vere Von Drakenberg, headed by H.R.H. Nicholas de Vere von Drakenberg, a descendant of the Merovingian Royal Bloodline.
2. The House of Stuart (Stewart) Currently overseen by H.R.H. Prince Michael of Albany

Prior to these distortions, the nature of kingship was entirely different. There was no requirement for Church sanction through coronation by parvenu popes or archbishops. Kingship was founded upon the ideal that all people were adherents of the earth, and that the earth bestowed sovereignty upon its first born people, the Elven Tribes. They were represented by a Dragon Queen, and she empowered the Grail King, who could not be a king without her.

In this environment, the right to kingship emanated from the female, since Mother Earth was herself deemed to be female. The overriding function of a king and queen was to maintain a spiritually transcendent intelligence within the realm, thereby enabling the organism (the kingdom) to function and develop in symbiosis with its surrounding environment.

"The wisdom of the alchemists claims that all life is fire, the soul of things. The light that emanates from it is our mercury and this all rises from the salt of the earth.

No family is 'saltier,' - physically, tangibly manifest - than that of the ancient and royal Dragon bloodline. That is to say, their claims are far older and more legitimate than many contenders would dare to admit.

The self-rooted nobility of the Dragon Family remains inextinguishable."
Prince Nicholas de Vere

"Allow the Dragon fire of grace to rage within you and engulf the vastness of your being.

Watch as it melts away every fear and limitation you have ever imposed onto yourself - at the rate at which every burning desire is met with heartfelt sincerity without any need to satisfy or act upon its endless list of demands.

This is the doorway into true liberation. It is where innocence and excitement recognizes itself, as the endless depths of intimacy, freely dwelling in the hearts of all."

Author unknown

Sorcerer Kings

by Nicholas De Vere

Although Merovingian culture was both temperate and surprisingly modern, the monarchs who presided over it were another matter.

They (The Sorcerer Kings) were not typical even of rulers of their own age, for the atmosphere of mystery legend, magic and the supernatural, surrounded them, even during their lifetimes. If the customs and economy of the Merovingian world did not differ markedly from others of the period, the aura about the throne and royal bloodline was quite unique.

Sons of the Merovingian blood were not 'created' kings. On the contrary they were automatically regarded as such on the advent of their twelfth birthday. There was no public ceremony of anointment, no coronation of any sort. Power was simply assumed, as by sacred right.

But while the king was supreme authority in the realm, he was not obliged - or even expected - to sully his hands with the mundane business of governing. He was essentially a ritualized figure, a priest-king, and his role was not necessarily to do anything, simply to be. The king ruled in short, but did not govern.

Even after their conversion to Christianity the Merovingian rulers, like the Patriarchs of the Old Testament, were polygamous.

On occasion they enjoyed harems of oriental proportions. Even when the aristocracy, under pressure from the Church, became rigorously monogamous, the monarchy remained exempt. And the Church, curiously enough, seems to have accepted this prerogative without any inordinate protest.

According to one modern commentator:

Why was it [polygamy] tacitly approved by the Franks themselves?

We may here be in the presence of ancient usage of polygamy in a royal family - a family of such rank that its blood could not be ennobled by any match, however advantageous, nor degraded by the blood of slaves. It was a matter of indifference whether a queen were taken from a royal dynasty or from among courtesans.

The fortune of the dynasty rested in its blood and was shared by all who were of that blood.

And again,

'it is Just possible that, in the Merovingians, we may have a dynasty of Germanic Heerkonige* derived from an ancient kingly family of the migration period'.

"The pryncedoms of Vere are ancient cultural manifestations of genetic qualities carried in the historical Elven Blood Royal.

Established in Angiers in 740 A.D. as a Royal House arising from far older sacral-regal, Pictish, Scythian Vere origins rooted in antiquity, the House of Vere is recorded in a single name and in an unbroken line for over one thousand three hundred years, and consequently is one of the oldest surviving royal dynasties in Europe."

Nicholas de Vere

De Vere Family Crest

Imperial status, authenticity and legitimacy are based on factual history, as well as the power of sacred history.

The House of Vere are descended in numerous lines from the Merovingian dynasty and consequently share in this ancient Germanic Royal Blood Tradition.

Prince Milo de Vere - married to Charlemagne's sister - and as Head of the Imperial House and Chief of the Imperial Army, was himself an Imperial Prince.

A True Royal house

The Royal House of Vere - The Senior Angevin House of the original 'Princes and Counts of Anjou' - are latterly of Breton and Flemish extraction and the former senior, Scottish Branch.

Hope-Vere of Blackwood, traditionally observed the Flemish law of Noblesse Uterine, and matrilinear and family inheritance in accordance with noble Scottish family law, which contemporarily and historically supports blood descent.

The Titles of Princeps Draconis and Prince de Vere, currently held by Nicholas de Vere, are acknowledged as foreign titles in confidential files held by the British Government's Department of Internal Affairs:

'The Home Office' and are registered with them as 'Official Observations'.

These titles are recognized by the most senior branches of the House of Vere. The right of fons honorum held by Nicholas de Vere is also acknowledged by Her Majesty's government.

Nicholas de Vere, though accepting the existence of both with some considerable qualification; does not claim to be either a member of the contemporary British royal household or of its peerage in any sense, and does not claim any status or rank suggestive of such or appertaining thereunto.

The Vere princedoms are not modern, socially derived titles; either assumed or bestowed, for or by, political expediency.

The princedoms of Vere are ancient cultural manifestations of genetic qualities carried in the historical Elven Blood Royal.

Established in Angiers in 740 A.D. as a Royal House arising from far older sacral-regal, Pictish, Scythian Vere origins rooted in antiquity, the House of Vere is recorded in a single name and in an unbroken line for over one thousand three hundred years, and consequently is one of the oldest surviving royal dynasties in Europe.

Sovereign Dragon Court and Nation

Descended From Antiquity

"The princedoms of Vere are ancient cultural manifestations of genetic qualities carried in the historical Elven Blood Royal. Established in Angiers in 740 A.D. as a Royal House arising from far older sacral-regal, Pictish, Scythian Vere origins are rooted in antiquity.

The House of Vere is recorded in a single name and in an unbroken line for over one thousand three hundred years, and consequently is one of the oldest surviving royal dynasties in Europe."

From: The Duchy of Angiers and The Royal House of Vere

The Dragon Blood Royal Dynasties

Paternal - Maternal Descent: The DNA Bridge

Paternal and Mitochondrial Dragon DNA explains the importance of the female decent.

Mitochondrial DNA is passed only through the female line. Mitochondria is a living sentient and separate life form from ourselves. The mitochondria are dependent on us for life; we live in a symbiotic relationship.

Mitochondrial DNA can live 15 generations. 15 generations of living mitochondria live inside you. Your 15 generation grandparents living cells are in you. A mutant mtDNA will drift to fixation in a human matrilineal in 15 generations. Recently an attempt was made to estimate the age of the human race using mitochondrial DNA.

This material is inherited always from mother to children only.

The Dragons' Midwife
by Rusty Mermaid

"Although she specializes in the hatching of Dragon eggs this Midwife knows that she has to deliver a healthy baby Dragon... or she will end up in the pile of bones. On the other hand she could leave with as much gold as she can carry!"
Rusty Mermaid

By measuring the difference in mitochondrial DNA among many individuals, the age of the common maternal ancestor of humanity was estimated at about 200,000 years.

It remains implausible to explain the known geographic distribution of mtDNA sequence variation by human migration that occurred only in the last 6,500 years.

Mitochondrial DNA (mtDNA) (by virtue of its maternal, non recombining mode of inheritance, rapid pace of evolution, and extensive intraspecific polymorphism) permits and even demands an extension of phylogenetic thinking to the microevolutionary level. Many species exhibit a deep and geographically structured mtDNA phylogenetic history.

Study of the relationship between genealogy and geography constitutes a discipline that can be termed intraspecific phylogeography, 'alien genes' in human DNA.

The \(Central Asian\) Khazar name is derived from Turkic *qaz-, meaning "to wander." The Ashina was considered a sacred clan of quasi-divine status. Q1 actually refers to the subclade Q-P36.2.

The Ashina clan, a noble caste, carry the 16q24.3 "red gene" inherited from the Sumerian Anunnaki, the root of the Dragon seed that permeates royal lines:

- Merovingian
- Carolingian
- Tudor
- Plantagenet
- Stuart
- Hapsburg
- Hanoverian
- Saxe-Coburg-Gotha

- Guelph
- Bowes-Lyon
- Battenberg (Mountbatten)
- Guise
- Savoy,

...families - and Transylvanian lineages.

The Davidic House of Judah married into the descent of the Merovingian Kings of the Franks. They are connected by a shared bloodline. The dragon archetype rests within the Dragon blood, passed on through the genes.

The re-expansion of paternal group R1b and maternal group H from the Basque Ice Age refuge spread up the coasts of all the countries facing the Atlantic, after the ice melted.

The British Isles retained higher rates than the other countries, for several reasons related specifically to early movements directly from the Basque country rather than from general diffusion from western Europe.

R1b and Q1 Blood Descent

First, as a result of lower sea levels, the British Isles, in particular Ireland, were connected and at the furthest edge of the extended Ice Age European continent, and thus received the bulk of early coastal migration.

Then, as sea levels rose, first Ireland then Britain became islands, relatively insulated from further migration from elsewhere in Europe, thus preserving their high rates of R1b and similarity to the initial settlements.

The means by which I could separate the R1b types in the British Isles from those on the other side of the channel is by the use of "Founder Analysis."

That is, looking at the detail of their gene types (so-called STR haplotypes). These revealed 21 founding clusters, which could only have arrived direct from the Basque country.

Their descendant twigs are unique to the British Isles.

Founding of the Royal Court

According to Nicholas de Vere:

"Briefly, the Dragon lineage starts in the Caucasus with the Anunnaki, descending through migrating proto-Scythian to the Sumerians while branching off also into the early Egyptians, Phoenicians and Mittani.

A marriage bridge back to Scythia infused the Elvin line of "Tuatha de Danaan" and the Fir Bolg, which branched into the Arch-Druidic, Priest-Princely family to the Royal Picts of Scotland and the ring kings of the Horse Lords of Dal Riada, through the Elven dynasty of Pendragon and Avallon del Acqs, and down to a few pure bred families today."

Nicholas de Vere

The Royal Court of the Dragon was founded by the priests of Mendes in about 2200 BC and was subsequently ratified by the 12th dynasty Queen Sobeknefru.

This sovereign and priestly Order passed from Egypt to the Kings of Jerusalem; to the Black Sea Princes of Scythia (Princess Milouziana of the Scythians) and into the Balkans - notably to the Royal House of Hungary, whose King Sigismund reconstituted the Court just 600 years ago. Sigismund's assumed descent from Melusine.

Her ancestry actually can be traced back to the Scythian Dragon Princess Scota, Queen Sobekh Nefru and the Egyptian Cult of the Dragon. Vlad Dracul was a minion of Sigismund of Luxembourg, and was educated at the Emperor's court in Nuremberg. Dracul was invested into Societas Draconis.

The Byzantine Emperor Constantine was a Dragon King. The Byzantine emperor Leo III married his son Constantine (V) to the Khazar princess as part of the alliance between the two empires.

Princess Tzitzak was baptized as Irene. Their son Leo (Leo IV) was known as "Leo the Khazar", emperor of the Eastern Roman (Byzantine) Empire from 775 to 780.

RH Negative Blood Type

Where did the Rh negatives come from? If they are not the descendants of prehistoric man, could they be the descendants of the ancient astronauts?

All animals and other living creatures known to man can breed with any other of their species. Relative size and color makes no difference.

Why does infant's haemolytic disease occur in humans if all humans are the same species?

Haemolytic disease is the allergic reaction that occurs when an Rh negative mother is carrying a Rh positive child. Her blood builds up antibodies to destroy an ALIEN substance (the same way it would a virus), thereby destroying the infant. Why would a mother's body reject her own offspring?

Nowhere else in nature does this occur naturally. This same problem does occur in mules - a cross between a horse and donkey. This fact alone points to the distinct possibility of a cross-breeding between two similar but genetically different species.

No one knows where the Rh negative people came from.

Rhesus negative blood simply means that the blood doesn't have any Rhesus antigens on the surface of the red blood cells. An "absence" of a protein does not necessarily have to originate from anywhere. The simplest explanation is that Rh negative blood is caused by a mutation on the first chromosome which rendered individuals incapable of producing functional Rhesus proteins.

As for why there are so few people with Rh negative blood, Rh-negative is a recessive trait, so all an individual needs is one functional Rhesus gene to produce Rh positive blood.

Since Rh negative blood does not hinder an individual's survivability or confer any evolutionary disadvantage other than the inability to receive Rh positive blood (which is pretty much a non-factor during the time period when blood transfusions weren't available), people with non-functional Rhesus genes continued to thrive and reproduce which is why there are still individuals with Rh negative blood.

Most, familiar with blood factors, admit that these people must at least be a mutation if not descendants of a different ancestor.

If we are a mutation,

- What caused the mutation?
- Why does it continue with the exact characteristics?
- Why does it so violently reject the Rh factor, if it was in their own ancestry?
- Who was this ancestor?

Difficulties in determining ethnology are largely overcome by the use of blood group data, for they are a single gene characteristic and not affected by the environment.

The Basque people of Spain and France have the highest percentage of Rh negative blood. About 30% have (rr) Rh negative and about 60% carry one (r) negative gene. The average among most people is only 15%-Rh negative, while some groups have very little.

The Oriental Jews of Israel, also have a high percent Rh negative, although most other Oriental people have only about 1% Rh negative. The Samaritans and the Black Cochin Jew also have a high percentage of Rh negative blood, although again the Rh negative blood is rare among most black people.

The Rh-Negatives Factor is considered a "Mutation" of "Unknown Origin", which happened in Europe, about 25,000-35,000 years ago. Then this group spread heavily into the area of what is now Spain, England, Ireland, etc. 5% of the Earth's population are currently Rh-Negatives.

But, they are 15% of the population of the England and the USA. The most distinctive members of the European branch of the human tree are the Basques of France and Spain. They show unusual patterns for several genes, including the highest rate of the Rh-negative blood type. Their language is of unknown origin and cannot be placed within any standard classification.

Consider Iceland, 1% of its population is Rh-negative.

The population of Iceland is about two-third of Scandinavian and one-third of Irish descent. Scandinavia, Ireland, and the British Isles show from 16% to 25% and above Rh-negative. The other populations with a proportion of Rh-negative individuals similar to Iceland occupy the eastern half of Asia, Madagascar, Australia and New-Zealand.

The people of the Basque region have a greater than 50 percent concentration of the RH negative gene. The frequency decreases in relation to the distance from the Basque region into the rest of the world until there is very little evidence of this gene.

This genetic mapping helps to show that a mutation from RH positive to RH negative occurred somewhere in the Basque area of Europe maybe as much as 40,000 years ago.

Science tells us that the red hair DNA did not originate with human beings but was Neanderthal DNA.

"When we look at the Y-chromosomes in Wales and Ireland, we find a very close match with the Basques."

"Other genetic evidence, he says, strongly suggests that the Basques are the descendants of the Paleolithic inhabitants of Western Europe prior to the arrival of farmers between 9,000 and 6,000 years ago".

During a period in history known as the Dark Ages, which happened around 1200 - 800 B.C. The "Tribe of Dan" was shipped into Western Europe with the aid of the Phoenicians from the Mediterranean Sea at about the same time in history. They came into Spain, France (Languedoc Area of France).

We also know that the 10 Lost Tribes of Israel known as the Hebrews migrated into Europe and became a blended group who would later become known as the Scythian, aka Aryan Races.

They migrated into Europe from the Caucasus and Carpathian mountain ranges while the Tribe of Dan into Spain, France and the British Isles from the Mediterranean Sea.

Phoenicians helped transport the Tribe of Dan into Spain, France, and the British Isles by way of the "Sea Route," from the Middle East. Phoenicians appear to be the Siberians of Russia, the Yakuts, Sakha and the Buryats.

THEY ARE THE SAME RACE WITH THE SAME DNA.

They have the same spiritual and historical traditions: the same names of landforms, rivers.

No one really knows where the Rh negative people came from?

Rh-negative women and men have several "Unusual Traits" that Rh-positives don't:

- An EXTRA-Vertebra (a "Tail Bone"): some are born with a tail (called a "Cauda"). CAUDA EQUINA - The bundle of spinal nerve roots arising from the end of the spinal cord and filling the lower part of the spinal canal (from approximately the thoracolumbar junction down).

- Embryology: Caudally the tail region projects over the cloacal membrane.
- Lower than normal Body Temperature.
- Lower than normal Blood Pressure.
- Higher mental analytical abilities.
- Higher Negative-ion shielding (from positive "charged" virus/bacteria) around the body.
- High Sensitivity to EM and ELF Fields.
- Hyper Vision and other senses. Another salient genetic feature is the the shape and sutures (bone joints) of cranial bones of Basques (The skull ridge).
- Tendency to having a thicker breast bone (sternum).

Dragon King

The Merovingian Dragons and Divine Kingship

“The all-important element of the Divine Right is that it comes from God, or ‘the gods’, alternately. And who were these gods?”

Authors such as Zecharia Sitchin, Sir Laurence Gardner and Nicholas de Vere are authoritatively convinced that kingship was created by an advanced race of beings called the Anunnaki, also called the Nephilim in the Old Testament.

These were the ones who created the human race and interbred with a portion of it to create the kingly caste which until this day has still maintained control over the Earth.

These celestial creatures have been variously identified with Dragons, Elves, Fairies, Gnomes, Leprechauns, Sprites, Nymphs, Pixies, Angels, Demons, Devils, Witches, Giants, Vampires, Werewolves, and just about every mythical being you can imagine.

Some, like Gardner and Sitchin, claim that they come from another planet. Others, like de Vere, say that they're multi-dimensional, or that they're from the Hollow Earth."

"The Biological Basis of Elitism and Divine Right Rule"

Early Sumeria and the Origins of Kingship

One of the interesting items from the archives of the Dragon Court was the origin of the word 'kingship'. It derives from the very earliest of Sumerian culture wherein 'kingship' was identical with 'kinship' - and 'kin' means 'blood relative'.

In its original form, 'kinship' was 'Kainship'.

And the first King of the Messianic Dragon succession was the biblical 'C(Kain)', head of the Sumerian House of Kish.

"On recognizing this, one can immediately see the first anomaly in the tradition of the Genesis story, for the historical line from David to Jesus was not from Adam and Eve's son, Seth, at all.

It was from Eve's son Cain, whose recorded successors (although given little space in the Old Testament) were the first great Kings (or Kains) of Mesopotamia and Egypt.

According to the Dragon tradition, the importance of Cain was that he was directly produced by Enki [Satan] and Ava [Eve], so his blood was three quarters Anunnaki. His half brothers Hevel and Satanael (better known as Abel and Seth) were less than half Anunnaki, being the offspring of Ateba and Ava (Adam and Eve).

We can now progress our story by considering the oldest Grant of Arms in sovereign history - the Grant of Arms which denoted the Messianic Dragon Bloodline for all time. The Sumerians referred to this insignia as the Gra-al... From biblical history, we know it better as the 'Mark of Cain'."

Laurence Gardner

Dragon Anunnaki Nurturing the Tree of Life

Sumerian and Babylonian King-Lists reveal the belief that "kingship" was "sent down" from "heaven" - decreed by the gods.

Many indigenous antic cultures followed the same tradition, including the Xiongnu, Scythians and Saka. Dynastic lists of pre-diluvial Sumerian kings were later re-catalogued in Babylon by Priest-Scribes.

The Egyptians also produced and monumentalized King-Lists, documenting the lineage of the Houses of their God-Kings in stone for all of Eternity. A name remembered was an afterlife assured.

The Dragon King was known as the King of Kings and his symbol, Draco, represented his succession through the Egyptian pharaohs, the Egyptian Therapeutae, the Qumran Essenes to the Merovingian kings of Europe.

"The kings of the early succession (who reigned in Sumer and Egypt before becoming kings of Israel) were anointed upon coronation with the fat of the Dragon (the sacred crocodile).

This noble beast was referred to in Egypt as the Messeh (from which derived the Hebrew verb 'to anoint'), and the kings of this dynastic succession were always referred to as 'Dragons', or 'Messiahs' (meaning 'Anointed Ones').

In times of battle, when the armies of different kingdoms were conjoined, an overall leader was chosen and he was called the 'Great Dragon' (the 'King of Kings') - or, as we better know the name in its old Celtic form, the 'Pendragon'.

In pictorial representation, the Messianic Dragon was, in essence, a large-jawed serpent with four legs, very much like a crocodile or a monitor. This was the Sacred Messeh whose name was 'Draco.'

Draco was a divine emblem of the Egyptian pharaohs, a symbol of the Egyptian Therapeutate, of the Essenes of Qumran, and was the Bistea Neptunis (the sea serpent) of the descendant Merovingian Fisher-Kings in Europe."

Laurence Gardner

“Through the work of Sir Laurence Gardener we discover that Sumaire in the old Irish language means Dragon.

He writes:

‘It is also reckoned that the subsequent culture of the region, phonetically called Sumerian (pronounced ‘Shumerian’) was actually Sidhemurian (Shee-murian). This case is now considerable since the early Ring Lords of Scythia , the Tuatha De Danaan king tribe were actually called the ‘Sumaire’.’

During the days of the Biblical Great Exodus, a group separated from Moses and went to the North. This group was the Tribe of Dann.

Millions went and settled in the European and Scandinavian areas. From there they spread out to other parts of the world, conquering the countries, spreading their Anunnaki seed and replacing the conquered people’s traditions with their own serpent culture.”

The Tribe of Dann and the Lost Tribe of Israel

The Canaanite territory of northern Israel was later occupied by the tribe of Dan, whose worship of Baal/Pan involved such fertility rites at Mount Hermon, also called Mount Sion.

Merovingians are the offspring of the tribe of Dan which intermarried with the Canaanite Tuatha De Danann, also known as the Dragon Lords of Anu because they were said to be the offspring of the fallen angels (Anunnaki).

When God dispersed the northern tribes for their wickedness, the tribe of Dan migrated to Greece, and later to France and the British Isles where they established pagan priesthoods and royal dynasties of the demonic bloodline:

“The Tuatha De Danann (or Dragon Lords of Anu)... [before settling in Ireland (from about 800 B.C.)]... were the... Black Sea princes of Scythia (now Ukraine).

Like the original dynastic Pharaohs, they traced their descent from the great Pendragons of Mesopotamia; from them sprang the kingly lines of the Irish Bruithnigh and the Picts of Scotland’s Caledonia. In Wales they founded the Royal House of Gwynedd, while in Cornwall in the southwest of England, they were the sacred gentry known as Pict-Sidhe.

So, from a single caste of the original Blood Royal - whether known as the Sangréal, the Albi-gens or the Ring Lords - we discover many of the descriptive terms which sit at the very heart of popular folklore.

For here, in this one noble race, we have the ‘elves’, ‘fairies’ and ‘pixies’ - not beguiling little folk, but distinguished Kings and Queens of the Dragon succession.”

Laurence Gardner, In the Realm of the Ring Lords

In ‘The Psalter of Cashel’ it states that:

‘The Tuatha de Danaan’ ruled in Ireland for about two centuries, and were highly skilled in architecture and other arts from their long residence in Greece.’ The Tuatha de Danaan were the descendants of Danaus, the son of Belus, who went with his fifty daughters to Argos, the home of his ancestors lo.

In Irish legends the Tuatha de Danaan, who were considered to be demigods,... were said to have possessed a... Grail-like vessel... These teachers of wisdom... were the founders of the Druidic priesthood.”

Van Buren, The Sign of the Dove

In Europe and the British Isles, the Dragon lineage intermarried with the royal families and became sovereigns.

The Pendragons

The Druidic Dragon King or Pendragon, also called the King of Kings, was chosen by a Council of Elders to rule over all the kingdoms.

"Cymbeline was the 'Pendragon' of mainland Britain during Jesus's lifetime. The Pendragon, or 'Head Dragon of the Island'... was the King-of-Kings and 'Guardian of the Celtic Isle'.

The title was not dynastic; Pendragons were appointed from Celtic royal stock by a Druidic council of elders.

The concept of the dragon in Celtic mythology emerged directly from the holy crocodile (the Messeh) of the ancient Egyptians. The Pharaohs were anointed with crocodile fat, and thereby attained the fortitude of the Messeh (Thus Messiah - Anointed One). The image of the intrepid Messeh evolved to become the Dragon, which in turn became emblematic of mighty kingship.

The Celtic Kings in Britain were called 'dragons' in the ancient Messeh tradition as intrepid guardians. But there were many separate kingdoms in those days before England gained an overall monarch in Saxon times. It was therefore necessary to appoint a King-of-Kings - a High King to preside overall, and to lead combined armies from different tribal areas.

The first Pendragon (Head Dragon/High King) was Cymbeline.

Columba... in 574, had crowned and anointed King Aedan mac Gabran of Dalriada (Celtic Pendragon and father of King Arthur) - the first British monarch to be installed by priestly ordination - and this greatly upset the Church of Rome."

Laurence Gardner

The Merovingians

The Druidic Pendragon was passed on to the Merovingian kings in 666 A.D.:

"The Celtic Pendragons were not father-to-son successors in a particular descent, but were chosen from various reigning dragon families and individually elected by a druidic council of elders to be the King of Kings.

The last Pendragon was Cadwaladr of Gwynedd, who died in A.D. 664. At around that time much of Britain fell to the Germanic influence of the invading Anglo-Saxon and Angle-land (England) was born as distinct from Scotland and Wales."

Laurence Gardner

"In 666, probably still in Ireland, Dagobert married Mathilde, a Celtic princess."

Baigent, Michael, Richard Leigh and Henry Lincoln, Holy Blood, Holy Grail.

"The Merovingian kings were noted sorcerers in the manner of the Samaritan Magi"

Laurence Gardner, Bloodline of the Holy Grail

The term "Merovingian" is said to derive from Merovee, King of the Franks from 447-458 A.D.

According to the legend, as explained in Bloodline of the Holy Grail, Merovee had two fathers, King Clodion and a strange "beast of the sea."

"Despite the carefully listed genealogies of his time, the heritage of Meroveus was strangely obscured in the monastic annals. Although the rightful son of Clodion, he was nonetheless said by the historian Priscus to have been sired by an arcane sea creature, the Bistea Neptunis.

The Sicambrian Franks, from whose female line the Merovingians emerged were associated with Grecian Arcadia before migrating to the Rhineland. As we have seen, they called themselves the Newmage - 'People of the New Covenant', just as the Essenes of Qumran had once been known.

It was the Arcadian legacy that was responsible for the mysterious sea beast - the Bistea Neptunis - as symbolically defined in the Merovingian ancestry. The relevant sea-lord was King Pallas, a god of old Arcadia...

The immortal sea-lord was said to be "ever-incarnate in a dynasty of ancient kings' whose symbol was a fish - as was the traditional symbol of Jesus."

Laurence Gardner, Bloodline of the Holy Grail

The legend of King Merovee conceals the TRUE origins of the Merovingian race in remote antiquity. "Meroveus" derives from the French words "mer" meaning "sea" and "Vere" meaning "werewolf" or "dragon."

The book of Revelation informs us that the dragon is "the Devil, and Satan," hence the esoteric allusion to the Merovingians' progenitor, King Merovee, a king of France sired by a mysterious "beast of the sea," is a claim that the Merovingian dynasty has literal Satanic descent:

"There was a very great 'Jewish' component among the Sicambrian Franks/Merovingians and, because they practiced polygamy (another Merovingian peculiarity) they left a great number of offspring.

These aristocratic Merovingian children married into almost all of the noble families of Europe during the 5th, 6th, and 7th centuries. This has prompted more than one historian to suggest that the foundation of European nobility is Jewish!"

Michael Bradley, Holy Grail Across the Atlantic

"There are at least a dozen families in Britain and Europe today - with numerous collateral branches - who are of Merovingian lineage. These include the House of Hapsburg-Lorraine... Plantar, Luxembourg, Monetized, Montes que, and various others.

According to the 'Prewar documents' the Sinclair family in Britain is also allied to the bloodline, as are various branches of the Stu arts... In many of its documents the Sion asserts that the new king, in accordance with Merovingian tradition, would 'rule but not govern'.

In other words he would be a priest-king who functions primarily in a ritual and symbolic capacity; and the actual business of governing would be handled by someone else - conceivably by the Priori de Sion."

Baigent, Michael, Richard Leigh and Henry Lincoln, Holy Blood, Holy Grail

After the Merovingian dynasty was deposed by the Roman Church in 800 AD, their demonic bloodline was preserved by the "Imperial and Royal Dragon Court" which conspired to regain control of the Holy Roman Empire through infiltration of Church and State.

Their insignia was the dragon in the form of a circle and a red cross - the Rosy Cross of the Priori de Sion, the Knights Templar and the Rosicrucians.

"When the Imperial and Royal Dragon Court was reconstituted by King Sigismund in 1408 as the Societas Draconis, it was based upon an ancient bloodline tradition which Sigismund assumed that he had inherited from his presumed Egyptian and Scythian ancestors through the Pictish, Dragon Princess Maelasanu of Northumbria and the Ancient and Original Angevin Royal House of Vere of Anjou, the Imperial Dukes of Angiers.

This line had descended through the Tuatha de Danaan (the Dragon Kings of Anu) on the one hand, and the Egyptian Dragon Dynasty of Sobek on the other. The latter strain included the bloodline of the Davidic House of Judah who married into the descent of the Merovingian Kings of the Franks.

In 1408 (when Britain was in her Plantagenet era), the Dragon Court was formally reconstituted as a sovereign body at a time of wars and general political turmoil...

The founding document... stated that members of the Court might wear the insignia of a dragon in curved into a circle, with a red cross - the very emblem of the original Rosicrusse which had identified the Grail succession from before 3000 B.C."

Laurence Gardner, Genesis of the Grail Kings

The Merovingian dynasty still maintains its legitimacy and will one day openly assert the divine right of their nobility to rule the world as an angelic race of demigods, whose ancestors were the fallen angels.

King of Scots

Robert the Bruce was far more than an "early Scottish King."

He was a high born Merovingian:

- Priest-King of the Celtic Church
- Liberator of Scotland from England
- Sovereign Grand Master of the Order of the Knights Templar
- Founder of the Order of the Rosy Cross

"In 1307... under the auspices of Robert the Bruce and the excommunicated clergy, the Order was restructured into a Church, with a hierarchy quite independent of Rome. The Templar Church had abbots, priests, and even bishops...

The Knights began to train the army of Robert the Bruce in the hit-and-run tactics of warfare established in the Crusades... The Roman Church may have betrayed the Templars, but in Scotland they found something far more trustworthy and tangible: a sacred royal house and a Priest-King of the Celtic Church succession.

The King of Scots was installed as the hereditary Sovereign Grand Master, and from that time, whichever descending King held that office, he was to be known as 'Saint Germain.'

A new Order was then formed, called the Elder Brothers of the Rosy Cross, and several of the Rosy Cross Knights then sailed to France for a meeting with Pope John XXII at Avignon.

Many historians have presumed therefore that the Knights Templars must have disbanded in Scotland, but this was not the case; it was simply that Bruce had contrived the secret Order to become even more secretive.

Indeed, the Order of the Knights of the Rosy Cross had been established by Bruce for Templars who had been valiant at Bannockburn, and this was a very successful cover."

Prince Michael Stewart, The Forgotten Monarchy of Scotland

Return to The Dragon Court