

New to the Market? Choose an Experienced REALTOR®

There are over one million REALTORS® working today. To find that one-in-a-million REALTOR® who will be a trusted partner in helping you buy or sell a home, look for the Certified Residential Specialist® (CRS) Designation.

The CRS Designation is the symbol of excellence in residential real estate. Less than three percent of REALTORS® have completed the advanced training and transaction requirements needed to earn the prestigious designation.

Working with a CRS Designee means that you are working with the best in the business—someone with proven knowledge and skills to make your home buying or selling experience much smoother and more lucrative.
