OVERVIEW

A four day training course to provide instructor candidates a comprehensive understanding of fundamental mechanical breaching operations for patrol level and warrant service. A focus is on teaching exigent circumstance techniques and procedures - such as active shooter events along with more conventional tactical operations. A variety of tools and applications are presented to include: commercial tools and improvised tools for ram & pry doors, ballistic, saws, bolt cutters. Candidates participate in multiple teach back sessions; and prepare and execute a one day program of instruction for a guest student base open to officers from outside agencies as their final graded exercise.
