The Ultimate Training Officer is a two-day, officer safety based training program. This course identifies the essential characteristics and skills necessary for improving the performance of new police officers. It also enhances training, regardless of what model you're using, it's guaranteed to excel your training officers to a higher level. Training officers will leave with the tools to train essential skills that are frequently not taught in basic FTO curriculum. The course is designed from more than 50 empirical resources and collaboration from Subject Matter Experts (SME's) throughout North America.

Rooted in our foundational belief that quality training should provide evidence-based, practical, and immediately applicable tools for officer safety, the goals of this class are simple:

1. To identify the essential characteristics and skills necessary for improving the performance of new police officers, with an emphasis on decision making under stress and officer safety.
2. To teach a new way of providing feedback that breaks with traditional feedback models and has been proven to increase human performance.
3. To provide the tools to train officers in essential skills that are frequently not taught in basic academy curriculum.

Observed Mandates Include:

Civil Rights

Cultural Competency

Procedural Justice

Constitutional and Proper Use of L/E Authority

Use of Force

Sergeant Jim Schlicher (Retired) has completed 25 years of Law Enforcement with the Westmont Police Department, Illinois.

In his tenure at Westmont he had many opportunities which included 22 years in SWAT. He retired from SWAT as the Team Commander for a multi-jurisdictional Team responsible for the protection of over 300,000 residents.

Jim retired as a patrol sergeant and had an array of responsibilities including the field training program, department training, use of force training, maintaining policies and procedures and the scheduling of the 42 employees. Jim also was the critical incident advisor to School District 201 and School District 60, where he developed, instituted and trained school staff and students k-12 the Run, Hide Fight strategy for their school's Active Shooter Policy. Jim served three years as the school resource officer where he started several pro-active programs with the students and the schools. He also had the opportunity to be assigned to the state's narcotics unit where he served for three years.

Jim obtained his Bachelor's Degree from Illinois State University in Sports Medicine and his Master's Degree from Lewis University in Criminal Social Science. He Graduated from Northwestern University Center for Public Safety School of Police Staff and Command in 2009. Jim was awarded the Medal of Valor from the DuPage County Hundred's Club for the officer-involved shooting he was involved on June 1, 2012. Jim has also recently graduated the highly regarded Force Science Institute. He continues to support the field of Public Safety working as a Firefighter and EMT for the Village of Clarendon Hills and instructs at the Suburban Law Enforcement Police Academy.

This course is funded by the Illinois Law Enforcement Training and Standards Board.
