Our Glass Wall Edition!

Bringing you up to date on KMA's unique architectural product collection!

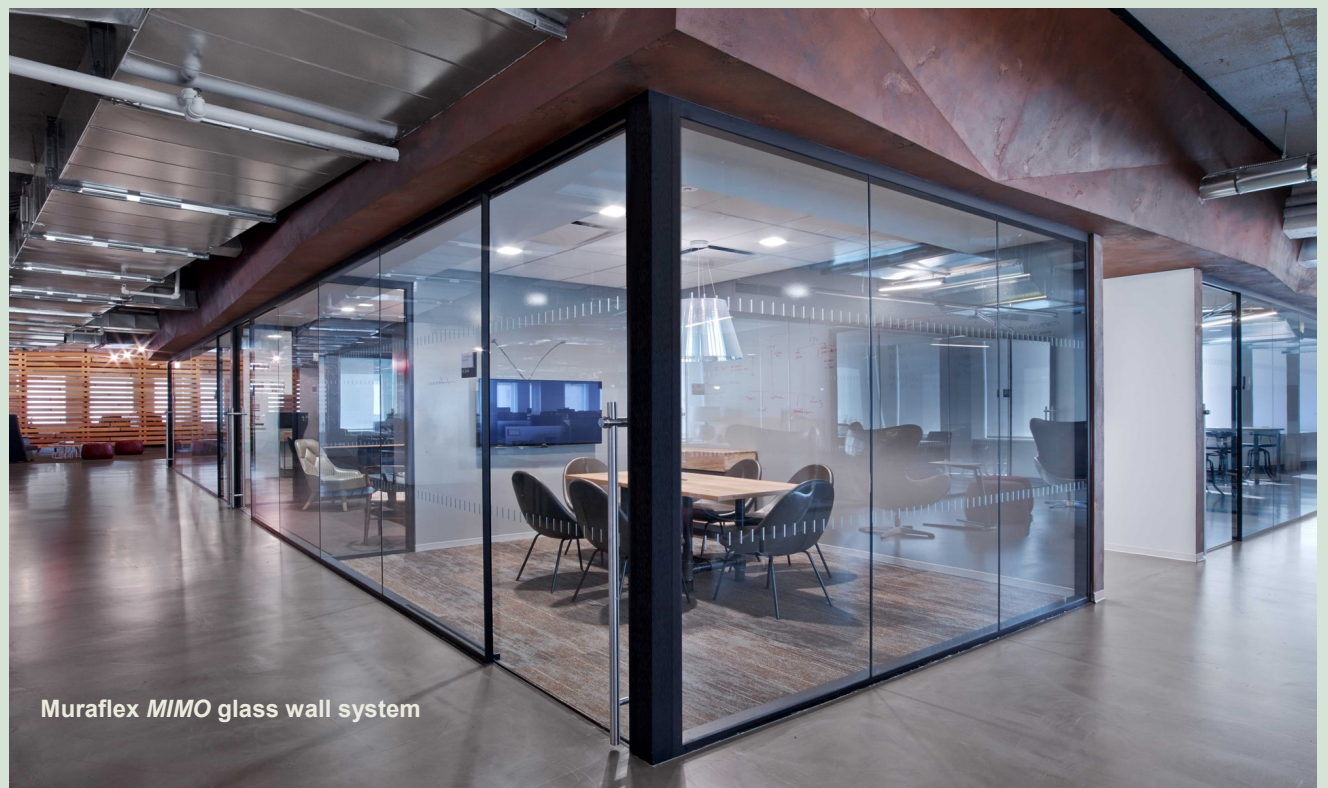

Days have begun growing darker and colder. But at the same time, the joys and lightness of the holidays are upon us! Though this year may be very different than past holiday seasons, we can do our best to remain positive and cherish simple pleasures with the sights and sounds that bring the season of cheer.

As 2020 comes to a close, we at KMA & Associates remain happy and grateful for that which unites us...the interest and love of great design and the amazing products we represent that contribute to well-executed interiors.

Modular glass partition walls are increasing in use because they offer significant benefits to the end-user. Here are just a few highlights:

1. Reconfiguration of space to suit client requests are simpler. Remodeling is less costly and time-consuming compared to traditional construction.
2. Clients can enjoy the open office experience with improved acoustics. Ambient noise is reduced by locating team meetings within the enclosed glass areas.
3. Glass partitions make for brighter interiors with more penetration of natural light. As we learned with last month's Mechoshade CEU, increased natural light makes people more productive and happier in their work environment.

Wouldn't You Like to Learn More About Designing with Glass Walls?

Coming up on December 8th and again on December 9th, KMA & Associates will be partnering with Muraflex to bring you another great CEU webinar titled "Glass Partitions: Design Considerations" The course will be presented by Jen DeMonico, Central Region Sales Manager with Muraflex and will explore how to best execute your next project using glass walls. We'll discuss the various factors that affect the privacy of your space such as sound transmission class, (STC rating), daylighting, and how glass walls may contribute to LEED points in projects. IDCEC and AIA credit will be provided.

We will be offering this same course 2 days in a row to make it easier to fit into your schedule. Look for a flyer in your email soon from your KMA & Associates territory rep with details and sign up links!
