"SONGS IN THE KEY OF

Since songs seem to dominate our lives, we decided to shape the yearbook around popular songs. We got really creative when we passed around questionnaires to the student body every week. We compiled the information into top 10 lists of popular trends. And the answers we got . . . WOW! See for yourself! As the students dealt with humid temperatures in school after a cool summer, the school year began smoothly. The upperclassmen then looked at the new crop of freshmen with a determination to initiate them properly. In the meantime, the seniors were laid back while the juniors worried about prom preparations. Mrs. Stopek came to fill in for Mrs. Defend, who was on maternity leave. Coach Erwin arrived as the new football and baseball head coach as well as the P.E. teacher. No other dramatic changes occurred at the beginning of the year.

The yearbook began its work in early August and got off to a productive start. We all hope 25 years from now, you enjoy remembering the songs and the lists.

Signed,

Robin Miller, Brandi Ramos, Tara Sullender, Jeni McCullough, Anne LeFever, Bob Day, Mary Ann Ayers, Carrie Beebe, Jeremy Jones, Kim Fay, Heather Isbell, and Nikki Blickenstaff.

Josh, 18 years ago you made our dreams come true, now 18 years later, you've done it again. We are proud of you. — Love Mom and Dad.

Congratulations Amy! We love you! — Love Mom and Dad.

DON'T MESS UP. Senior Terri Hess and Junior Kristi Becker try hard to concentrate on not stepping on anyone's feet while doing the electric slide at prom.

LET'S GO SHOPPING. Senior Angie Ingram counts her money with excitement at after-prom while thinking of ways to spend it.

NOT JUST ANOTHER PRETTY FACE. Senior Shawn Fuss shows us his famous smile during study hall.

"Nothing Else Matters"

ONE DAY AT A TIME
by Kathy Chestnut

As I am lying in bed, I see her face,
Now she is gone without a trace,
The pain we feel will never leave,
The sorrow we have will never ease,
One day at a time is what we will need,
Knowing that she will never awake.

One day at a time is what we will need,
Praying to God down on our knees,
Now she is in a better place,
Looking down with a smiling face.

It doesn't seem real . . .
It doesn't seem fair . . .
But in our hearts,
She will always be there.

One day at a time is what it will take,
Knowing that she will never awake,
And one day at a time is what we will need,
Praying to God down on our knees.

Kristi D. Lane

June 29, 1977-May 2, 1993

COMIC RELIEF. Kristi joins fellow sophomores Chris Chestnut, Brandi Ramos, and Jesse Wright in a light moment after a grueling hour of data processing.

IN A TRANCE. Sophomores Tara Lamb, Lana Morgan and Kristi vegetate in home room.

"JUST ANOTHER DAY"

SUCH A STRENUOUS JOB. Freshman Anne LeFever is ready for a break during a Wednesday night meeting.

CREATIVE BLANK. Junior Bob Day, Sophomores Mary Ann Ayers and Brandi Ramos look for new ideas through old yearbooks and pictures.

SUMMER JOB. Sophomore Carrie Beebe faithfully comes in during the summer to finish the book.

WHERE COULD THAT PICTURE BE? After working diligently for several weeks during the summer, Junior Jeni McCullough and Sophomore Kim Fay search for a missing group picture.

HANGIN' IT UP! After 36 years Mr. Tom Hensley finally hangs up his favorite sweater with the help of his wife, Mrs. Barb Hensley, who is also retiring after 23 years.

STAND UP AND TAKE A BOW! On graduation night not only the graduates were being honored, but Mr. and Mrs. Hensley were too.

"PURPLE HAZE"

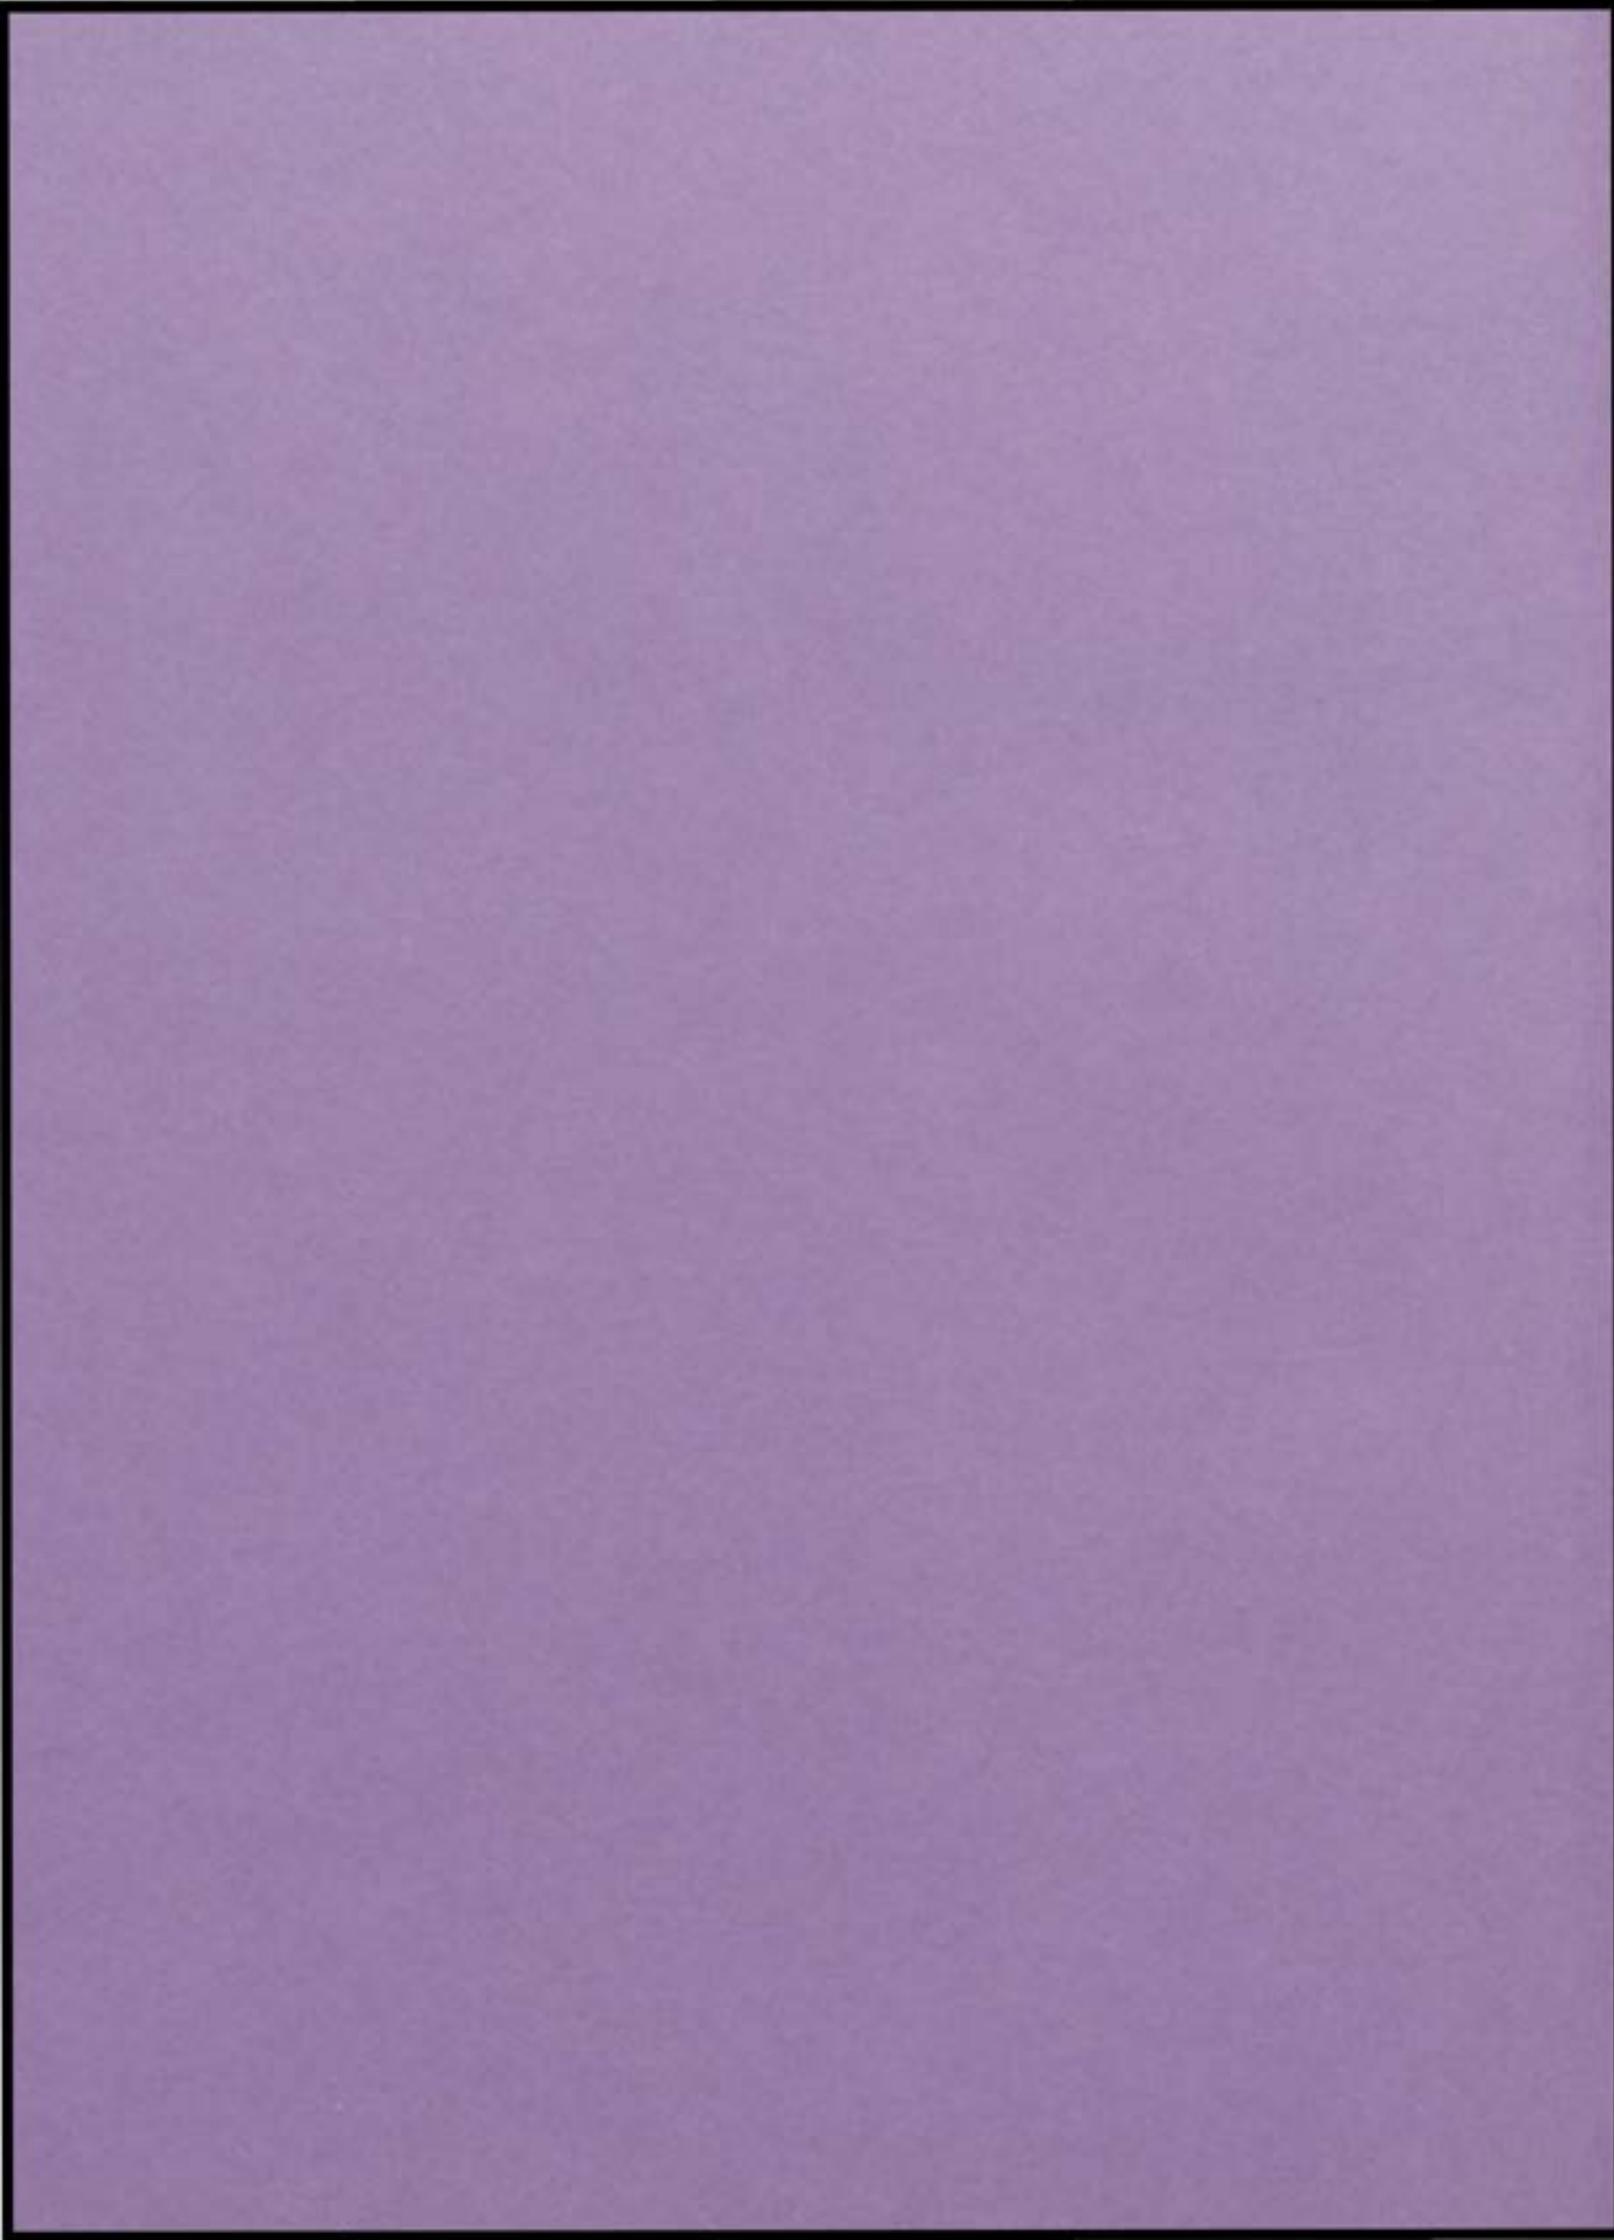

HALL OF FAMERS? Seniors Lorrie Yokley, Clint Zoch and Ronna Felty begin their road of adult life, hoping to do great things.

Here we are at the end. After many headaches and many frustrated moments, the finished product is now in your hands. As the year went on, the staff dwindled but the strong survived. Look who stuck it out 'til the end. Enjoy!

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Act 1983, 1990).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems. The Department of Health (1998) has set out a strategy for mental health care, which includes a commitment to improve the lives of people with mental health problems and to reduce the stigma and discrimination that they experience.

One of the key elements of this strategy is the development of a new model of care, which is based on the principles of recovery and self-help. This model of care is designed to help people with mental health problems to lead a more normal life and to participate in the community.

Recovery is a process, not a destination. It is a journey that involves the development of a new sense of self and the ability to manage one's own life. Self-help is a key component of recovery, and it involves the use of a range of strategies to help people to manage their symptoms and to improve their quality of life.

There are a number of factors that can influence the process of recovery, including the severity of the mental health problem, the support available to the person, and the person's own beliefs and attitudes. It is important to recognize that recovery is a process that can take time and effort.

One of the key challenges in the development of a new model of care is the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems in a way that is respectful of their dignity and autonomy. This requires a shift in the way that mental health services are organized and delivered.

There are a number of ways in which this can be achieved, including the development of new services and the re-organization of existing services. It is important to involve people with mental health problems in the development of these services, as they are the best placed to know what they need.

One of the key elements of a new model of care is the development of a strong therapeutic relationship between the person and the service. This relationship is based on trust, respect, and mutual understanding. It is this relationship that can help the person to manage their symptoms and to improve their quality of life.

There are a number of ways in which this relationship can be developed, including the use of a range of therapeutic approaches. It is important to recognize that the relationship is a key component of recovery, and it is one that can be developed by anyone who is willing to listen and to support the person.

One of the key challenges in the development of a new model of care is the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems in a way that is respectful of their dignity and autonomy. This requires a shift in the way that mental health services are organized and delivered.
