

Choosing To Serve

As Joshua stood among people, he instructed all that they have the ability to choose who they want to serve. The gods on the other side or the true and living God that delivered them into the promise land (Joshua 24:15).

The same principle and standard are available for us today. We can choose who we want to serve. However, we do know that we cannot serve God and the world (Matthew 6:24). It is impossible to be faithful to two masters. Such is the obstacle that we face. We as Christians can remain faithful to God or turn back to the world. Those who have not obeyed God have the ability to remain in the world or turn to God.

With all this being said, think about your life. We are only here for a short amount of time. What do we serve? Have we given full consideration for our soul? What do we want? We can choose who we want to serve. God has given us instruction on how to serve Him and serve one another and left an example through Jesus Christ (Matthew 20:28). So, who do you want to choose to serve? Daniel N Sanders
