Brought to you by Cindy Nicholson, CEO of Braintree. With over 30 years expertise, Cindy knows it's not just about technology, it includes embracing culture and the change of mindset that enables an organisation and its people to remain relevant, valuable and grow in a landscape that's never been more competitive. Certified Exec Coach with ICF, Certified NLP Practitioner, and Certified Practitioner of The Dilyn Way..

Testimonials

"Instrumental to my development and helped me make some really important life and career choices and helped me realize that I had to take some steps to realize my ambition and enable me to get some valuable career and life experience."

I have achieved great results in the first 2 years including being promoted to a Vice President role running $150m profit & loss business with global customers.

Cindy helped me make the move to Hong Kong and make the right choices that have made such a difference to my personal life and my career."

Vice President, BT Global, New York, USA

Testimonials

Cindy helped me to increase my personal confidence and professional capability. She has a wealth of skills, experience and talent that helped me develop and focus on my personal and professional goals.

Each coaching session was energized by her passion to help, and this energy motivated me to break through barriers that were holding me back.

For example, giving me the confidence to write articles, present webinars and podcasts, and increasing my 'brand' and credibility in my given profession.

If you are thinking about coaching and transforming yourself, think no more and reach out to Cindy; whatever stage your career, or your personal ambitions are at.

6 WAYS TO IMPROVE YOUR WELLBEING

The Reality Zone

The objective of this masterclass is to enable you to become more intelligent and active in shaping your wellbeing at work.

What you will learn:

- An introduction to a wellbeing model called PERMAH – this is a great model for helping think through each element of wellbeing and create strategies
- You will explore strengths (things you're good at and actually enjoying doing) and discuss why this is important at work
- You will chat about strategies to increase relationships
- You will reflect on what it means to have a growth mindset and introduce a little model to use every day to start to build this habit
- We will discuss the importance of health
- And you will take away a template for immediate action and value

Brought to you by Julie Cockerill
Julie has over 20 years' experience in human resources, organizational design, culture change and business transformation. She's a wellbeing champion with a passion for building strengths and resilience in teams and is an experienced coach and leadership facilitator and has recently found excitement for big adventures like climbing to Everest Base Camp.

DEBUNKING THE IMPOSTER SYNDROME

What you will learn:

Research has shown that women underestimate their skills and have a higher level of self doubt than men.

This is demonstrated in the way we apply for jobs, promotions and also our own self talk when we land those plum roles – the key thoughts being “when will they find out I am actually hopeless?”

If you have these thoughts, you are not alone. The imposter syndrome is something we all deal with and some of us take it with us to the day we die. Now is the time to "out" that imposter and start being real with ourselves – this will lead to success and getting us where we want to be.

This masterclass, will give you insights into the imposter syndrome, how we all suffer from it to a degree and how we can harness it and go where we want to go and be who we want to be

BREAKING THE BARRIERS OF VIRTUAL LEADERSHIP

What you will learn:

As we recognize that pondering on what the new reality might look like, we're missing the point that it's already here, but constantly on the move.

Since the beginning of the COVID pandemic the concept of Virtual leadership and the need for leadership to deeply understand how to lead virtually and manage remote teams presents unique complexities and nuances. The good news is that there are techniques and focus areas every leader can adopt to safeguard wellbeing, productivity, and rich cultural experiences.

During this session we will talk about the profile of effective virtual leadership and how you can maximize your own practice in this area.

We will also talk to remote working and hybrid working environments: how this effects culture and ultimately, your bottom line!

SUBSCRIPTIONS AND SERVICES

Digital Age Leadership

Leaders are the key. They are the glue that connects the machinery of digital transformation with the humanity of culture shift.

Digital transformation is familiar to most organisations today but remains a challenge for many.

Much of this is attributed to the re-positioning of digital transformation away from technology and towards people.

This is at the heart of the Dilyn Way approach and model. More importantly, the increased acceptance and understanding of the role leaders will have to play in the success of any digital transformation.

To do this we support our customers by delivering a unique leadership programme that allows their own leaders and change agents to accelerate digital transformation.
