Description of the Firm

LFG Wealth Partners, LLC (“LFG” or “the Firm”) is a registered investment adviser with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). The firm is based in Elizabethtown, Kentucky, with a branch office in Louisville, Kentucky. LFG is organized as a limited liability company (“LLC”) under the laws of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Justin Jenkins is LFG’s sole owner.

Description of Investment Advisory Services

LFG provides the investment advisory services described in this disclosure brochure through an appropriately licensed and qualified individual who is an investment adviser representative (“IAR” or “financial professional”). LFG provides personalized investment management services for clients seeking a personalized approach to implementing an investment strategy designed to meet their goals and objectives. LFG works with clients to understand their individual investment objectives, liquidity and cash flow needs, time horizon and risk tolerance, as well as any other factors pertinent to their specific financial situations. After an analysis of the relevant information, LFG assists clients in developing an appropriate strategy for managing their assets and financial affairs. Client accounts are managed primarily on a discretionary basis, but the firm can accommodate clients who prefer their assets be managed on a non-discretionary basis.

At the beginning of LFG’s relationship with you, your financial professional will review your current investment portfolio, obtain information necessary to understand your current and expected financial situation, discuss with you your investment history, objectives, special interests, and risk tolerance, and make recommendations regarding your portfolio.

LFG offers multiple types of advisory services designed to meet the unique needs of our clients. Below are descriptions of the primary advisory services we offer. A written investment advisory services agreement detailing the exact services we will provide to you and the fees you will be charged will be executed prior to the commencement of any services.

Model Portfolios

LFG offers model portfolio selection services, which allows us to exercise discretion to implement a specialized investment strategy that is managed either by LFG, a third-party portfolio provider (individually, a “Strategist” and collectively “Strategists”), or a third-party investment manager (individually, a “Third-Party Manager” and collectively “Third-Party Managers”). These models are approved by the LFG Chief Investment Officer prior to being available and are reviewed on a periodic basis. After gathering and reviewing information you provide, your financial professional will select the model portfolio(s) that align(s) with your disclosed financial circumstances, risk tolerance, and investment objectives. LFG will exercise its discretionary authority to implement the selected model portfolio(s) and to trade your account based on information or signals provided by the manager(s) of the model portfolio(s). In some instances, we will recommend a Third-Party Manager that has discretionary authority for the day-to-day management of the assets allocated to it by LFG or by you in separately managed accounts. The Third-Party Manager will directly trade the securities it selects for the account based on the applicable investment strategy. These managers also consider each client’s investment objectives, financial situation, and reasonable restrictions placed on the investment of the client’s assets when implementing the trades.

Model portfolios, whether created and managed by LFG or others, are designed for investors with varying degrees of risk tolerance ranging from a more aggressive investment strategy to a more conservative investment approach. Clients whose assets are invested in model portfolios may not set restrictions on the specific holdings or allocations within the model or the types of securities that can be purchased in the model. Nonetheless, clients may impose restrictions on investing in certain securities or types of securities in their account. In such cases, this may prevent a client from investing in certain models.

We will be available to answer questions that you may have regarding your account. We will have the ability to select the model portfolio(s) as well as the ability to reallocate funds from or to the model portfolio(s) and funds in other accounts over which you have granted us discretionary authority. There may be other model portfolios not recommended by our firm that are suitable for you and that may be less costly than models recommended by our firm. No guarantees can be made that your financial goals or objectives will be achieved through Model Portfolios or by a recommended or selected model portfolio. Further, no guarantees of performance can ever be offered by our firm. Please refer to sections Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss of Item 8 – Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss for more details.

Direct Asset Management Services

LFG can also individually select the securities held in your account on a discretionary basis. We will have the ability to buy or sell securities on your behalf without your prior permission for each transaction. That notwithstanding, you will have the ability to impose restrictions on the management of your account, including the ability to instruct us not to purchase certain securities.

We will need to obtain certain information from you regarding your financial situation, investment objectives, and risk tolerance so we may manage your account according to those factors. As part of this process, your financial professional will gather and review information you provide. You will be responsible for notifying us of any updates regarding your financial situation, investment objectives, and risk tolerance and whether you wish to impose or modify any existing investment restrictions.

The financial situation, investment objectives, and risk tolerance for each LFG client is unique. As a result, advice to another client or actions taken for them or for our personal accounts can differ from the advice we provide to you or the actions we take for you. We are not obligated to buy, sell, or recommend to you any security or other investment that we may buy, sell, or recommend for any other clients or for our own accounts.

Conflicts can arise in the allocation of investment opportunities among accounts that we manage. We strive to allocate investment opportunities believed to be appropriate for your account(s) and other accounts advised by our firm among such accounts equitably and consistent with the best interests of all accounts involved. But there can be no assurance that a particular investment opportunity that comes to our attention will be allocated in any particular manner. If we obtain material, non-public information about a security or its issuer, we may not lawfully use or disclose this information. We will also not allow our clients to use this information.

ERISA Retirement Plan Services

The Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 ("ERISA") is the law governing the operation of employee benefit plans. LFG provides investment advisory and consulting services to Plan Sponsors of ERISA plans under Sections 3(21) and 3(38) of ERISA ("3(21) Service" and "3(38) Service," respectively, collectively the "Services"). When providing services to a Plan Sponsor, the Plan Sponsor is the client. We provide services only to the Plan Sponsor or to the Plan Sponsor with respect to the Plan Sponsor's responsibilities to the Plan and not, as part of these services, to any Plan Participant(s). Services provided to Plan Sponsors will be outlined in a separate written agreement between LFG and the Plan Sponsor.

Under the 3(21) Service, LFG acknowledges that, to the extent the services to a Plan subject to ERISA constitute “investment advice” to the Plan for compensation, LFG will be deemed a “fiduciary” as such term is defined under Section 3(21)(A)(ii). LFG provides ongoing investment monitoring and investment recommendation services or other agreed upon services in the agreement with the Plan Sponsor. Accordingly, we acknowledge our fiduciary status only with respect to the provision of services described in the agreement. Under the 3(21) Service, LFG does not have investment discretion and does not have the power to manage, acquire, or dispose of any plan assets and is not an “investment manager” as defined in Section 3(38) of ERISA. Additionally, the Plan Sponsor retains ultimate decision-making authority for the investments and may accept or reject the recommendations of LFG under this service.

Under the 3(38) Service, the LFG Investment Committee selects a diverse line-up of investment options across a range of asset classes to be offered to Plan Participants in accordance with Section 3(38) of ERISA. The LFG Investment Committee provides asset allocation risk-based model portfolios for the Plan. The LFG Investment Committee will manage the model portfolio development, construction, and maintenance, and make updates as needed. Under the 3(38) Service, LFG’s IARs may provide general enrollment and investment education to Plan Participants, but do not provide specific individualized investment advice within the meaning of ERISA to Plan Participants with respect to their Plan assets. Additionally, LFG offers the 3(38) Service to Plan Sponsors as a standalone service.

In accordance with Section 3(38) of ERISA, LFG has discretion to choose a “Qualified Default Investment Alternative” (“QDIA”). A QDIA is a default investment option chosen by a plan fiduciary for Plan Participants who fail to make an election regarding investment of their account balances. Unless unavailable with the recordkeeper, LFG will utilize target-date asset allocation investment options for the 3(38) Services QDIA. Under the 3(21) Services, LFG may recommend, but does not choose, a QDIA to the Plan Sponsor.

Under either Service, LFG may assist the Plan Sponsor with Plan Participant enrollment and Plan education. If the services selected by the Plan Sponsor include enrollment and investment education to Plan Participants, the services do not include any individualized investment advice within the meaning of ERISA to Plan Participants with respect to their Plan assets. LFG does not select the recordkeeper, but merely recommends the funds or investment vehicles offered by, or available through, the recordkeeper selected by the Plan Sponsor. The Sponsor-chosen recordkeeper may require that their proprietary funds be used for certain asset categories. It may limit the fund choices for plans of certain sizes. And it may not credit the plan for certain fees that it receives from third parties. If you have questions about this, please contact your Plan Sponsor or the Plan Recordkeeper. Additionally, as it pertains to these Services, LFG does not offer qualified tax or legal advice. LFG does not hold itself out as a tax advisor and does not provide such services, therefore LFG recommends consulting with a tax advisor if you have tax-related questions.

Disclosure Regarding Rollover Recommendations

When you leave an employer, you typically have five options regarding your existing retirement plan: (i) leave the money in the former employer’s plan, if permitted; (ii) roll over the assets to the new employer’s plan, if one is available and rollovers are permitted; (iii) rollover to a brokerage (self-directed) Individual Retirement Account (“IRA”); (iv) roll over the assets to an advisory IRA; or (v) cash out the account value (which could, depending upon your age, result in adverse tax consequences). Clients contemplating rolling over retirement funds to an IRA for LFG to manage are encouraged to first speak with their CPA or tax attorney.

There is a financial incentive for your financial professional to recommend that you roll over your assets into one or more accounts, because the enrollment will generate compensation based on the increase in LFG's total assets under management. We address these financial compensation conflicts by including the disclosure of the conflicts in this brochure and by requiring your financial professional to recommend investment advisory programs, investment securities, and services that are in the best interest of each client based upon the client's investment objectives, risk tolerance, financial situation, and cost, among other factors. As fiduciaries of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way LFG makes money creates some conflicts with your interests. You are under no obligation, contractually or otherwise, to complete the rollover. Furthermore, if you do complete the rollover, you are under no obligation to have the assets in an account managed by us.

Tailor Advisory Services to Individual Needs of Clients

LFG's advisory services are always provided based on your individual needs. Your financial professional will assist you in determining your objective(s), investment strategy, and investment suitability prior and subsequent to opening an asset management account. Accordingly, we will need to obtain certain information from you to determine your financial situation, investment objectives, and risk tolerance. As part of this process, your financial professional will assist you in completing a detailed client profile questionnaire and review the information you provide. When we provide asset management services, you are given the ability to impose restrictions on the accounts we manage for you, including specific investment selections and sectors. You will be responsible for notifying us of any updates regarding your financial situation, investment objectives, or risk tolerance and whether you wish to impose or modify any existing investment restrictions.

We will not enter into an investment adviser relationship with a prospective client whose investment objectives may be considered incompatible with our investment philosophy or strategies or where the prospective client seeks to impose unduly restrictive investment guidelines.

Types of Investments

LFG primarily provides investment advice, based on the client's stated goals and objectives, on various types of investments including equity securities, exchange traded funds ("ETFs"), mutual funds, corporate debt securities, municipal securities, United States government securities, mortgage securities, agency securities, asset backed securities, and money market funds. The firm generally provides advice only on the products previously listed, but reserves the right to offer advice on any investment product that may be suitable for each client's specific circumstances, needs, goals, and objectives.

Client Restrictions

Notwithstanding the foregoing, clients may impose certain written restrictions on us in the management of their investment portfolios, such as prohibiting the inclusion of certain types of investments in an investment portfolio or prohibiting the sale of certain investments held in the account at the commencement of the relationship. Each client should note, however, that restrictions imposed by a client may adversely affect the composition and performance of the client's investment portfolio. Each client should also note that his or her investment portfolio is treated individually by giving consideration to each purchase or sale for the client's account. For these and other reasons, performance of client investment portfolios within the same investment objectives, goals, and risk tolerance may differ, and clients should not expect that the composition or performance of their investment portfolios would necessarily be consistent with similar clients of ours.

Nondiscretionary Accounts

Clients who choose a nondiscretionary arrangement must be contacted prior to the execution of any trade in the account(s) under management. This may result in a delay in executing recommended trades, which could adversely affect the performance of the portfolio. This delay also normally means the affected account(s) will not be able to participate in block trades, a practice designed to enhance the execution quality, timing, or cost for all accounts included in the block. In a non-discretionary arrangement, the client retains the responsibility for the final decision on all actions taken with respect to the portfolio. You have an unrestricted right to decline to implement any advice provided by our firm on a non-discretionary basis.

Participation in Wrap Fee Programs

A wrap fee is a fee an investor pays that includes management fees, transaction costs, fund expenses, and other administrative fees. With the exception of clients' 401(k) or 403(b) accounts, all LFG investment advisory services client accounts will be participating in LFG's wrap fee program. LFG will collect the fee from the client as indicated in the Investment Advisory Agreement. LFG will then pay a portion of the fees collected to other service providers for services rendered. Therefore, you will generally only pay fees based on assets under management, and in most circumstances you will not pay a separate commission, ticket charge, or custodian fee for the execution of transactions in your account. LFG and certain service providers, including the custodian and model portfolio manager (if applicable), will receive a portion of the fee as compensation for services. Any favorable pricing LFG receives in these arrangements is not passed along to the client. There are certain fees charged by the custodians that are not included as part of the wrap pricing agreement. For more information on these fees, see Item 5 – Fees and Compensation.

Assets Under Management

As of December 31, 2024, LFG provides continuous and regular supervisory management and oversight services for $111,999,695 in client assets on a discretionary basis and $0 in client assets on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 5 Fees and Compensation

This section provides details regarding the fees and compensation we receive for the services we offer. Lower fees for comparable services may be available from other sources. The exact fees and other terms will be outlined in the Investment Advisory Agreement between you and LFG.

Fees for Model Portfolios and Direct Asset Management Services

Fees for Model Portfolios and Direct Asset Management Services are charged based on a percentage of assets under management, billed in arrears (at the end of the billing period) on a monthly calendar basis and calculated based on the average daily balance of the account for the current billing period, all according to the fee schedule below:

Assets Under Management	Annual Fee
$0 - $500,000	1.5%
$500,001 - $2,500,000	1.3%
$2,500,001+	1.0%

Fees are prorated (based on the number of days service is provided during the initial billing period) for your account opened at any time other than the beginning of the billing period. Under the average daily balance method, each day's balance for the month is summed and then divided by the number of days in the month to compute the average daily balance. The average daily balance is then multiplied by the monthly portion of the annual fee to determine the monthly fee due. Cash placed in a model will be included in the billing; non-modelized cash will not.

LFG combines the account values of family members living in the same household to determine the applicable advisory fee. For example, account values for you and your minor children, joint accounts with your spouse, and other types of related accounts may be combined. Combining account values may increase the asset total, which may result in your paying a reduced advisory fee based on the available breakpoints in our fee schedule stated above. LFG also reserves the right to reduce or waive fees at its discretion.

LFG's fee is deducted directly from your account through the qualified custodian holding your funds and securities. Advisory fees are deducted only when you have given our firm written, ongoing authorization permitting the fees to be paid directly from your account(s), which authorization you must provide for LFG to begin providing investment advisory services to you.

Your qualified custodian will deliver an account statement to you at least quarterly. These account statements will show all disbursements from your account, including fees paid to LFG for services rendered. You should review all statements for accuracy.

LFG will withdraw the fees directly from your account(s) each month. LFG will then pay a portion of the fee to other service providers for various services to LFG, including any fees associated with LFG's clients' use of certain models.

When we use our own model portfolios or direct asset management services, a portion of your investment advisory fee is not allocated to a third party manager, but your overall fee will not be lower in such circumstances. As a result, LFG is incentivized to select model portfolios that we manage in lieu of model portfolios managed by others. We address this conflict of interest by disclosing it to you in this brochure and requiring your financial professional to make investment recommendations that are in your best interest. The rationale for not reducing your fees is that we incur expenses related to the management of our proprietary models.

LFG believes that its wrap fee is reasonable in relation to services provided and the fees charged by other investment advisers offering similar services and programs, but our fee may be higher than that charged by other investment advisers offering similar services and programs. In addition to our compensation, you may also incur charges imposed at the mutual fund level (e.g., advisory fees and other fund expenses).

In most circumstances, investment advisory fees will be deducted from your account and paid directly to our firm by the qualified custodian(s) of your account. You must authorize the qualified custodian(s) of your account to deduct fees from your account and pay such fees directly to LFG. If more convenient for you, you have the authority to require us to charge your investment advisory fees to a single, designated account. Keep in mind that your custodian will rely on our instructions to charge the designated account and will have no responsibility to confirm those instructions with you or verify the amount or timing of investment advisory fees charged to the designated account. Additionally, collecting a fee for a taxable account out of a non-taxable account typically constitutes a taxable event and may be subject to a penalty. Please consult with a tax advisor in the event you wish to charge all fees to a single advisory account.

You should review your account statements received from the qualified custodian(s) and verify that appropriate investment advisory fees are being deducted. The qualified custodian(s) will not verify the accuracy of the investment advisory fees deducted. LFG has discretion to bill you for fees incurred instead of deducting the fees from your account.

Either LFG or you may terminate the Investment Advisory Agreement at any time immediately upon written notice to the other party in accordance with the terms of the Investment Advisory Agreement. If services are terminated at any time other than the last business day of the month, fees for the final billing period will be determined on a pro rata basis using the number of days services are actually provided during the final period. Upon termination, you are responsible for monitoring the securities in your account, and we will have no further obligation to act or advise with respect to those assets. In the event of a client's death or disability, LFG will continue management of the account until we are notified of the client's death or disability, at which point we will then freeze the account until we have received the appropriate documentation to update the account or transfer it to the client's beneficiaries. If at some point the account is again in good order, we will resume management.

If you are an investment advisory client of LFG, asset management services are only offered through our wrap fee program (with the exception of 401(k) and 403(b) accounts, as previously noted). Therefore, you will generally only pay fees based on assets under management and, in most circumstances, you will not pay a separate commission, ticket charge, or custodial fee for the execution of transactions in your account. If there is a low number of trades or transactions in your account(s) that we manage, it is likely that the wrap fee will be higher than an account charged on a transactional basis.

In addition to the fees described above, you may incur certain charges imposed by third parties other than LFG in connection with investments made through your account. These fees include, but are not limited to, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund (e.g. 12b-1 trails), index fund, or exchange-traded fund which shall be disclosed on the fund's prospectus, mark-ups and mark-downs, spreads paid to market makers, surrender charges, IRA and qualified retirement plan fees, regulatory fees assessed by the SEC or FINRA, fees (such as a commission or markup) for trades executed away from our custodians at another broker-dealer, wire transfer fees, and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. The markups and markdowns, bid-ask spreads, and selling concessions are related to your custodian acting as a principal. Principal transactions contrast with transactions in which the custodian acts as your agent in effecting trades. Markups and markdowns and bid-ask spreads are not separate fees but are reflected in the net price at which a trade order is executed. You will also pay costs imposed by third parties, such as transfer taxes, odd-lot differentials, certificate delivery fees, reorganization fees, and any other fees required by law. LFG management fees are separate and distinct from fees and expenses charged by investment company securities recommended to you. A description of these fees and expenses is available in each investment company security's prospectus. Additionally, you can find more information on these fees on custodians' websites. For fee information for Fidelity, visit <https://www.fidelity.com/trading/commissions-margin-rates>. For fee information for Altruist, visit https://altruist.com/m/20240412_Altruist_Fee_Schedule.pdf.

Treatment of Mutual Fund Share Classes

Mutual funds often offer multiple share classes with differing internal fee and expense structures. LFG endeavors to identify and utilize the share class with the lowest internal fee and expense structure for each mutual fund, but instances can occur in which the lowest cost share class is not used. These instances include:

- Instances in which a certain custodian has a share class available that has a lower internal fee and expense structure than is available for the same mutual fund at other custodians. In such instances, LFG will select the lowest cost share class available at the custodian that holds your account even though a lower cost share class is available at another custodian.
- Instances in which the custodian that holds your account offers others a share class with a lower internal fee and expense structure than what is available to LFG at the same custodian. In such instances, LFG will select the lowest cost share class that the custodian makes available. This situation sometimes occurs because the custodian places conditions on the availability of the lower cost share class that LFG has determined are not appropriate to accept due to additional costs imposed by said conditions.

- Instances in which a share class with a lower internal fee and expense structure becomes available after the share class you hold was purchased. LFG periodically monitors for this circumstance, but a share class with a lower internal fee may become available between the time of your purchase and LFG's next review. If during that review LFG determines a lower share class is available, we request the custodian convert the mutual fund share to the lower class.
- Instances in which a share class with a lower internal fee and expense structure than the share class you currently hold is available at your custodian, but there are limitations as it relates to share class eligibility, custodian restrictions, or additional fees or taxes that the conversion would trigger. LFG cannot convert to a share class with a lower internal fee and expense structure if the account is ineligible (e.g., the fund company only allows certain types of registration types to use the share class or the account does not meet the investment minimum for the share class) or if the fund company will not accept a conversion if the share amount is too small. LFG also cannot convert to a lower internal fee and expense structure if the custodian will not allow it (e.g., custodial restrictions). Also, LFG does not convert to a share class with a lower internal fee and expense structure if the conversion will cause a taxable event or other expense or cost to you that negates the advantage of the lower cost share class.
- Instances in which a third-party model manager selects a share class for inclusion in a model that is not the lowest cost share class available. You should anticipate that third-party model managers make their investment selections without any input from LFG. In such cases, LFG implements the models as directed by the third-party model managers and does not screen for the lowest mutual fund share class available.
- Instances in which you make your own investment selections in a client-directed account. In such circumstances, LFG does not screen for the lowest mutual fund share class available.

Treatment of No Transaction Fee Securities

Certain securities qualify for no transaction fee pricing (i.e., $0.00 commissions) with our custodians. If you receive services on a wrap fee basis and participate in transactions that qualify for no transaction fee pricing, it will not affect LFG's fee. LFG may receive favorable pricing on specific securities offered at our custodians for the trading of ETFs and individual equities. For services you receive through our wrap fee programs, we may compensate the custodian(s) for their custodial services with a portion of the fee that we charge you. Depending on the products you hold in your account, LFG sometimes does not incur custodial service fees from the custodian. In the event LFG does not incur custodial fees, no additional discounts are applied to the fees you pay LFG. Additionally, an investment in a no transaction fee mutual fund does not necessarily mean that the investment is in that mutual fund's lowest share class, nor will it necessarily be the lowest cost option when comparing funds and classes.

ERISA Retirement Plan Services

LFG provides Retirement Plan Services to retirement Plan Sponsors. Annual fees for retirement plan services LFG provides to ERISA Plan Sponsors are 0.5%. A Plan Sponsor's agreement with the recordkeeper will determine the frequency at which fees are paid. For example, fees may be calculated and billed quarterly, but some recordkeepers may calculate and bill more frequently. If you are a Plan Sponsor and have questions about your recordkeeper's pay schedule, please confer with us or refer to your agreement with the recordkeeper.

Compensation for Sale of Securities

When managing accounts through programs outlined in this disclosure brochure, some of the advice we offer may involve investments in mutual fund products. Load and no-load mutual funds may pay annual distribution charges sometimes referred to as 12b-1 fees. However, LFG does not receive any portion of the 12b-1 fees paid or other compensation, such as commissions, loads, and trails, in these transactions.

You are never obligated to the broker-dealer(s) we have chosen, and you are never obligated to purchase investment products through our financial professionals. You have the option to purchase investment products through other brokers or advisers that are not affiliated with LFG.

Item 6 Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

Performance-based fees are defined as fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client. Side-by-side management is the practice of charging a traditional management fee and a performance-based fee simultaneously. Neither LFG nor its investment adviser representatives receive performance-based fees or participate in side-by-side management.

Item 7 Types of Clients

LFG offers investment advisory services to the following types of clients:

- Individuals;
- High net worth individuals;
- Corporations and other business entities;
- Trusts, estates, charitable organizations, foundations, and endowments; and;
- Retirement plans.

Clients are required to execute a written investment advisory agreement with LFG when establishing an investment advisory relationship.

Minimum Investment Amounts Required

In general, LFG requires a minimum of $500,000 to open and maintain an advisory account. LFG reserves the right to waive this minimum at its discretion.

Item 8 Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies, and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

LFG may use one or more of the following methods of analysis when providing investment advice to you:

- Cyclical. The Cyclical Method analyzes investments that are sensitive to business cycles and whose performance is strongly tied to the overall economy. For example, cyclical companies tend to make products or provide services that are in lower demand during downturns in the economy and in higher demand during upswings. Examples include the automobile, steel, and housing industries. The stock price of a cyclical company will often rise just before an economic upturn begins and fall just before a downturn begins. Investors in cyclical stocks try to make the largest gains by buying the stock at the bottom of a business cycle, just before a turnaround begins.

While most economists and investors agree that there are cycles in the economy that need to be respected, the duration of such cycles is generally unknown. An investment decision to buy at the bottom of a business cycle may actually turn out to be a trade that occurs before or after the bottom of the cycle. If done before the bottom, then downside price action can result prior to any gains. If done after the bottom, then some upside price action may be missed. Similarly, a sell decision meant to occur at the top of a cycle may result in missed opportunity or unrealized losses.

- Fundamental. The Fundamental Method evaluates a security by attempting to measure its intrinsic value by examining related economic, financial, and other qualitative and quantitative factors. Fundamental analysts attempt to study everything that can affect the security's value, including macroeconomic factors (like the overall economy and industry conditions) and individually specific factors (like the financial condition and management of a company). The end goal of performing fundamental analysis is to produce a value that an investor can compare with the security's current price in hopes of figuring out what sort of position to take with that security (underpriced = buy, overpriced = sell or short). Fundamental analysis is considered to be the opposite of technical analysis. Fundamental analysis is about using real data to evaluate a security's value. Although most analysts use fundamental analysis to value stocks, this method of valuation can be used for just about any type of security.

The risk associated with fundamental analysis is that it is somewhat subjective. Although a quantitative approach is possible, fundamental analysis usually entails a qualitative assessment of how market forces interact with one another in their impact on the investment in question. It is possible for those market forces to point in different directions, thus necessitating an interpretation of which forces will be dominant. This interpretation may be wrong and could therefore lead to an unfavorable investment decision.

- Technical. The Technical Method evaluates securities by analyzing statistics generated by market activity, such as past prices and volume. Technical analysts do not attempt to measure a security's intrinsic value, but instead use charts and other tools to identify patterns that can suggest future activity. Technical analysts believe that the historical performance of stocks and markets are indications of future performance.

Technical analysis is even more subjective than fundamental analysis in that it relies on proper interpretation of a given security's price and trading volume data. A decision might be made based on a historical move in a certain direction that was accompanied by heavy volume; however, that heavy volume may only be heavy relative to past volume for the security in question, but not compared to the future trading volume. Therefore, there is the risk of a trading decision being made incorrectly since future trading volume is an unknown. Technical analysis is also done through observation of various market sentiment readings, many of which are quantitative. Market sentiment gauges the relative degree of bullishness and bearishness in a given security, and a contrarian investor utilizes such sentiment advantageously. When most traders are bullish, then there are very few traders left in a position to buy the security in question, so it becomes advantageous to sell it ahead of the crowd. When most traders are bearish, then there are very few traders left in a position to sell the security in question, so it becomes advantageous to buy it ahead of the crowd. The risk in utilization of such sentiment technical measures is that a very bullish reading can always become more bullish, resulting in lost opportunity if the money manager chooses to act upon the bullish signal by selling out of a position. The reverse is also true in that a bearish reading of sentiment can always become more bearish, which may result in a premature purchase of a security.

Charting is a set of techniques used in technical analysis in which charts are used to plot price movements, volume, settlement prices, open interest, and other indicators, in order to anticipate future price movements. Users of these techniques, called chartists, believe that past trends in these indicators can be used to extrapolate future trends. Charting is likely the most subjective analysis of all investment methods since it relies on proper interpretation of chart patterns. The risk of reliance upon chart patterns is that the next day's data can always negate the conclusions reached from prior days' patterns. Also, reliance upon chart patterns bears the risk of a certain pattern being negated by a larger, more encompassing pattern that has not yet shown itself.

To conduct analysis, LFG gathers information from financial newspapers and magazines, inspection of corporate activities, research materials prepared by others, investment research software, corporate rating services, timing services, annual reports, prospectuses and filings with the SEC, and company press releases. There are risks involved with any method of analysis that may be used.

Investment Strategies

LFG may employ one or more the following investment strategies when managing client assets or providing investment advice:

- Direct Indexing. Direct indexing is the process by which an investor invests in an investment portfolio comprising individual securities intended to replicate the performance of one or more investment indexes, strategies, or models (individually a "Benchmark" and when the portfolio contains securities that reference more than one Benchmark, a "Blended Benchmark"). The inputs include but are not limited to preferences, which may include individual or lists of companies chosen for the portfolio; a desired Benchmark or a relative allocation between Benchmarks ("Blended Benchmark"); and investment strategy constraints, such as security exposure, turnover, and trade thresholds and tax considerations.

Direct indexing products may not contain all constituent securities of the Benchmark, may contain alternative securities, or may contain securities in different weights or allocations than the Benchmark. As a result, the portfolios will not track the Benchmark exactly, and the gains or losses of the portfolio may be greater or less than the gains or losses experienced by the Benchmark. This difference is known as "tracking error." LFG will take reasonable efforts to mitigate tracking error within a set target range by rebalancing the portfolio through the purchase and sale of constituent securities but cannot guarantee that it will always be able to successfully mitigate tracking error. Any restrictions placed by the client on securities that may be held in a portfolio and the budget for realized capital gains on transactions in the account may increase tracking error and decrease the effectiveness of rebalancing. LFG cannot guarantee that the dividend yield in any portfolio will accurately track the benchmark.

In taxable accounts, a strategy of tax loss harvesting is often employed in direct indexing accounts. But tax-loss harvesting involves certain risks, including that the new investment could have higher costs or perform worse than the original investment and could introduce portfolio tracking error into accounts. There may also be unintended tax implications. LFG does not hold itself out as an accountant or tax advisor and does not provide such services. Therefore, LFG recommends consulting with a tax advisor before engaging in direct indexing for the purpose of tax loss harvesting.

- Options Trading. An option is a contract that gives the buyer the right, but not the obligation, to buy or sell a particular security at a specified price before the expiration date of the option. The two types of options are calls and puts. A call gives the holder the right to buy an asset at a certain price within a specific period of time. A put gives the holder the right to sell an asset at a certain price within a specific period of time. LFG writes call options to supplement certain direct indexing and strategic indexing strategies. Options are complex securities that involve risks and are not suitable for everyone.

- Strategic asset allocation. A strategic asset allocation strategy calls for setting target allocations and then periodically rebalancing the portfolio back to those targets as investment returns skew the original asset allocation percentages. The concept is akin to a “buy and hold” strategy, rather than an active trading approach. Of course, the strategic asset allocation targets may change over time as the client’s goals and needs change and as the time horizon for major events such as retirement and college funding grow shorter.
- Style-based investing. There are various “style-based” investing strategies. The value investing strategy involves selecting stocks that trade for less than their intrinsic values. Value investors typically seek stocks of companies that they believe the market has undervalued. They believe the market overreacts to good and bad news, resulting in stock price movements that do not correspond with the company’s long-term fundamentals. The result is an opportunity for value investors to profit by buying when the price is deflated. Often, value investors select stocks with lower-than-average price-to-book or price-to-earnings ratios or high dividend yields. The risks associated with value-investing include incorrectly analyzing and overestimating the intrinsic value of a business, concentration risk, under performance relative to major benchmarks, macro-economic risks, investing in value traps i.e. businesses that remain perpetually undervalued, and lost purchasing power on cash holdings in the case of inflation. Growth investing is a strategy focused on increasing an investor’s capital by typically investing in young or small companies whose earnings are expected to increase at an above-average rate compared to their industry sector or the overall market. This can be a popular strategy, but because these companies are still new, investing in them imposes a fairly high risk.
- Tactical asset allocation. A tactical asset allocation strategy allows for a range of percentages in each asset class (such as stocks = 40-50%). The ranges establish minimum and maximum acceptable percentages that permit the investor to take advantage of market conditions within these parameters. Certain tactical strategies may also trade frequently, which may cause tax implications. LFG does not hold itself out as an accountant or tax advisor and does not provide such services. Therefore, LFG recommends consulting with a tax advisor as it relates to this investment strategy.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities (including stocks, mutual funds, and bonds) always involves risk of loss. Depending on the different types of investments utilized, there are varying degrees of risk. Accordingly, you should be prepared to bear investment loss including the loss of your original principal. Furthermore, past performance is not indicative of future results. Therefore, you should never assume that any specific investment or investment strategy will be profitable.

Because of the inherent risk of loss associated with investing, our firm is unable to represent, guarantee, or even imply that our services and methods of analysis can or will predict future results, successfully identify market tops or bottoms, or insulate you from losses due to market corrections or declines. There are certain additional risks associated with investing in securities through our investment management program:

- Alternative Investments Risk. Alternative investments typically do not correlate to the stock market, which means they can be used to add diversification to a portfolio and help mitigate volatility. Alternative Investments can be illiquid due to restrictions on transfer and the lack of a secondary trading market. These investments may lack transparency as to share price, valuation, and portfolio holdings. Complex tax structures often result in delayed tax reporting. Compared to mutual funds, private funds are subject to less regulation and often charge higher fees. Alternative investments encompass a broad array of strategies, each with its own unique return and risk characteristics to be considered on a case-specific basis.

- Company Risk. When investing in stock positions, there is always a certain level of company or industry specific risk that is inherent in each investment. This is also referred to as unsystematic risk and can be reduced through appropriate diversification. There is the risk that the company will perform poorly or have its value reduced based on factors specific to the company or its industry. For example, if a company's employees go on strike or the company receives unfavorable media attention for its actions, the value of the company's stock may be reduced.
- Collateralized Loan Obligation ("CLO") Risk. A CLO is a single security backed by a pool of debt. That pool of debt often consists of a bundle of corporate loans that are ranked below investment grade. CLOs are securities subject to credit, liquidity, and interest rate risks. The investor will receive scheduled debt payments from the underlying loans, assuming most of the risk if the borrowers of those loans default. A CLO usually has multiple "tranches." Each tranche is a piece of the CLO, and the order of the tranches dictates in what order the investors will be paid when the underlying loan payments are made. The tranches also dictate the associated risk since investors who are paid last have the highest overall risk of loss. Those paid first have less risk and are therefore paid smaller interest payments, whereas those paid last receive higher interest payments to compensate for the risk.
- Cryptocurrency. Cryptocurrency is a digital or virtual currency that is used as an alternative payment method or speculative investment. Cryptocurrency is not backed by real assets or tangible securities, are traded between consenting parties with no broker, and most are tracked on decentralized, digital ledgers with blockchain technology. Cryptocurrency is subject to, and has experienced, rapid surges and collapses in values. In addition to the market risk associated with speculative assets, cryptocurrency investment carries a number of other risks. As a result, investment in cryptocurrency is considered to be a more volatile investment. Although LFG does not allow for direct cryptocurrency investment, some models and ETFs LFG uses may have an underlying cryptocurrency investment or component.
- Cybersecurity Risk. With the increased use of technologies to conduct business, LFG is susceptible to operational, information security, and related risks. In general, information and cyber-incidents can result from deliberate attacks or unintentional events and arise from external or internal sources. Cyber-attacks include unauthorized access to digital systems (such as through "hacking" or malicious software coding) for purposes of misappropriating assets or sensitive information; corrupting data, equipment, or systems; or causing operational disruption. Cyber-attacks may also be carried out in a manner that does not require gaining unauthorized access, such as causing denial of service attacks on websites (making network services unavailable to intended users). Cyber-incidents may cause disruptions and affect business operations, potentially resulting in financial losses, impediments to trading, the inability to transact business, destruction to equipment and systems, violations of applicable privacy and other laws, regulatory fines, penalties, reputational damage, reimbursement or other compensation costs, or additional compliance costs.
- Duration Risk. Duration is a way to measure a bond's price sensitivity to changes in interest rates. The duration of a bond is determined by its maturity date, coupon rate, and call feature. Duration is a method to compare how different bonds will react to interest rate changes. If a bond has a duration of five (5) years, it means that the value of that security will decline by approximately five percent (5%) for every one percent (1%) increase in interest rates.
- Emerging Markets Risk. The risks associated with foreign investments are heightened when investing in emerging markets. The governments and economies of emerging market countries may show greater instability than those of more developed countries. Such investments tend to fluctuate in price more widely and to be less liquid than other foreign investments.

- ETF, Closed-end Fund, and Mutual Fund Risk. When investing in an ETF or mutual fund, you will bear additional expenses based on your pro rata share of the ETF's or mutual fund's operating expenses, including the potential duplication of management fees. The risk of owning an ETF or mutual fund generally reflects the risks of owning the underlying securities the ETF or mutual fund holds. If the ETF, closed-end fund, or mutual fund fails to achieve its investment objective, the account's investment in the fund may adversely affect its performance. Because the value of ETF shares depends on the demand in the market, your IAR may not be able to liquidate the holdings at the most optimal time, adversely affecting performance. Closed-end funds not publicly offered provide only limited liquidity to investors. Generally, closed-end funds are not required to buy back their shares from investors upon request. Spot Bitcoin ETFs pose an additional layer of risk due to the potential volatility of Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies.
- Equity (Stock) Market Risk. Common stocks are susceptible to general stock market fluctuations and to volatile increases and decreases in value as market confidence in and perceptions of their issuers change. If you held common stock, or common stock equivalents, of any given issuer, you would generally be exposed to greater risk than if you held preferred stocks and debt obligations of the issuer. And because the value of investment portfolios will fluctuate, there is the risk that you will lose money and your investment may be worth more or less upon liquidation.
- Fixed Income Risk. When investing in bonds, there is the risk that the issuer will default on the bond and be unable to make payments. Further, individuals who depend on set amounts of periodically paid income face the risk that inflation will erode their spending power. For some fixed-income products, investors receive set, regular payments that face the same inflation risk. Fixed income instruments purchased by a client are subject to the risk that as interest rates rise, the market values of bonds decline. This results in a more pronounced effect on the securities with longer durations. Fixed income securities are also subject to reinvestment risk, which refers to the possibility an investor will be unable to reinvest cash flows (i.e., coupon payments or interest) in a new security at a rate comparable to their current rate of return.
- International Investing Risk. International investing, especially in emerging markets, involves special risks, such as currency exchange and price fluctuations and political and economic risks.
- Interval Fund Risk. Interval funds are classified as closed-end funds, but they are distinct because the shares do not trade on the secondary market, but instead periodically the fund offers to buy back a percentage of outstanding shares at net asset value. This results in the funds being largely illiquid. There is no guarantee that investors will be able to sell their shares at any given time or in the desired amount. Additionally, repurchase is done on a pro-rata basis; therefore, there is no guarantee you can redeem the number of shares you want during a given redemption.
- Lack of Diversification Risk. Concentrated portfolios, including portfolios with a concentration in one asset class, typically result in increased risk and volatility and decreased diversification, which could result in losses.
- Liquidity Risk. Liquidity is how easily an asset or security can be bought or sold in the market and converted to cash. Generally, the less liquid an asset is, the greater the risk that if an investor needed to sell the asset quickly, the asset will be sold at a loss. Simple assets tend to be more liquid than complex assets. An asset tends to be more liquid if it represents a standardized product or security and there are many traders interested in making a market in that product or security. Some investments, like Qualified Opportunity Zone Funds, are considered private investments and are illiquid because there is no public market that currently exists for the investment type. Therefore, the inability to quickly sell or liquidate this investment carries a higher risk for a loss in the investment. The same goes for investment properties sold or exchanged in an Internal Revenue Code Section 1031 exchange ("1031 exchange") in which one property is swapped for a like-kind property in order to defer capital gains taxes. This is a tax strategy which often combines the 1031 swap with a Delaware Statutory Trust in which the property is held for several years, per the United States Internal Revenue Service. Due to this strategy's required "holding" period, this private investment poses a liquidity risk. LFG does not offer tax or legal advice. Additionally, LFG does not hold itself out as a tax advisor and does not provide such services. Therefore, LFG recommends consulting with a tax advisor if you have tax-related questions.

- Management Risk. Your investment with a registered investment adviser varies with the success and failure of its investment strategies, research, analysis, and determination of portfolio securities. If our investment strategies do not produce the expected returns, the value of the investment will decrease.
- Margins Risk. A margin transaction occurs when an investor uses borrowed assets by using other securities as collateral to purchase financial instruments. The effect of purchasing a security using margin is to magnify any gains or losses sustained by the purchase of the financial instruments on margin. Margin trading involves interest charges and risks, including the potential to lose more than deposited or the need to deposit additional collateral in a falling market.
- Non-Investment Grade Bonds. Commonly known as "junk bonds," non-investment grade bonds are "below investment grade quality" (rated below Baa3 by Moody's Investors Service, Inc. or below BBB- by Standard & Poor's Ratings Group and Fitch Ratings or, if unrated, reasonably determined by the Firm to be of comparable quality). Junk bonds represent bonds issued by companies that are financially struggling and have a higher risk of defaulting or not paying their interest payments or repaying the principal to investors. Investing in non-investment grade bonds can be speculative.
- Non-Traded Business Development Companies. Non-traded business development companies ("non-traded BDC(s)") are a closed-end investment company that invests in small- and medium-sized businesses. Non-traded BDCs are not traded on an exchange. Therefore, they are subject to other types of risk, such as high-net-worth requirements, higher initial investments, higher sales commissions and fee structures, limited liquidity, longer-term investment horizons, and redemption limits and suspensions. BDCs are limited to accredited investors, and they generally invest in companies that are still developing and/or may be in financial distress. As a result, the companies that a BDC invests in are more likely to go out of business or default on their debts. Additionally, BDCs often use leverage or debt to increase the potential for higher returns. However, leverage can also potentially increase losses. Finally, in addition to charging management fees, the fund manager may also charge a performance fee.
- Options Risk. Options on securities may be subject to greater fluctuations in value than an investment in the underlying securities. Purchasing and writing put and call options are highly specialized activities and entail greater than ordinary investment risks. Options, like other securities, carry no guarantees, and investors should be aware that it is possible to lose all of your initial investment, and sometimes more. Since options derive their value from an underlying asset, which may be a stock or securities index, any risk factors that impact the price of the underlying asset will also indirectly impact the price and value of the option. Extreme market volatility near an expiration date can cause price changes resulting in the option expiring worthless. In addition, options can be purchased or sold in covered or uncovered (or naked) strategies. A covered strategy is one in which the seller of a call option holds a currently owns the underlying assets of the options contract. An uncovered, or naked, strategy, is one in which the seller of a call or put option does not hold currently own the underlying securities. Selling a naked option can be an extremely risky strategy and should be used by experienced traders who understand how to manage their notational exposure and risk.

- Private Investments Risk. A private investment is a financial asset outside public market assets, meaning they are not listed on an exchange. Investors often access private investments through a private investment fund. A private investment fund is an investment company that doesn't solicit capital from retail investors or the public. Hedge funds and private equity funds are two of the most common types of private investment funds. Private equity investing often has high investment minimums and they may also have higher liquidity risks since private equity investors are expected to invest their funds with the firm for several years, on average. Investors often utilize private investments to diversify their portfolio and reduce overall risk exposure across specific sectors. But because there is no major public exchange for these investments, a fund manager may find it difficult to liquidate the investments in a fund in times of economic stress. LFG generally limits investments in private funds, but the firm does allow high net worth clients to invest in certain private investments
- Publicly Traded Business Development Companies. Business Development Companies ("BDC(s)") are a type of closed-ended fund that provide retail investors a way to invest in small and medium-sized private companies and, to a lesser extent, other investments, including public companies. BDCs are complex and are associated with unique risks. Publicly traded BDCs can be bought and sold on national securities exchanges. BDCs are not limited to qualified investors. But BDCs generally invest in companies that are developing or financially distressed. As a result, the companies that a BDC invests in are more likely to go out of business or default on their debts. Additionally, BDCs often use leverage or debt to increase the potential for higher returns. However, leverage can also potentially increase losses.
- Reinvestment Risk. Reinvestment risk is the risk that future interest and principal payments may be reinvested at lower yields due to declining interest rates.
- REITs and Real Estate Risk. Real estate investment trusts (REITs) are popular investment vehicles that pay dividends to investors. The value of an investment in REITs may change in response to a change in the real estate market. REITs may subject an investment to additional risks such as decline in the value of real estate, changes in interest rates may result in lack of available mortgage funds or other capital and financing limits, extended vacancies of properties, increases in property taxes and operating expenses, and changes in zoning laws and regulations. When traded like shares of stock on exchanges, REITs can give exposure to diversified real estate holdings.
- Securities Lending. Securities lending is the act of loaning shares of stock, commodities, derivative contracts, or other securities to other investors or firms. For receipt of these securities, the borrower is required to put up collateral—whether cash, other securities, or a letter of credit—for the lender to hold until the agreement is terminated and/or the securities are liquidated. Generally, the lender receives a lending fee based on a designated interest rate multiplied by the market value of the securities on loan. The interest rate paid is based on the relative value of the individual securities in the securities-lending market and are subject to change based on market conditions and borrowing demand. Loaned securities are sometimes considered "hard to borrow" because of short selling, scarcity of available lending supply, or corporate events that affect liquidity in a security. Securities lending also exposes a lender to the risk of borrower or counterparty default.
- Small- and Medium-Capitalization Companies. Publicly traded companies are often segmented by their market capitalization, i.e., the total value of their shares in the market. Small-cap investing is often used when an investor is focused on growth opportunities. Though they historically outperform large-cap stocks, small-cap stocks are riskier. Prices of small-cap stocks are often more volatile than prices of large-cap stocks. The same can be said for some medium-cap stocks. Additionally, the risk of bankruptcy or insolvency for smaller companies is higher than for larger companies.

- Structured Notes Risk. Structured notes are complex instruments consisting of a bond component and an imbedded derivative component that adjusts the security's risk-return profile. There are both principal-at-risk and principal-protected notes. Principal-protected notes offer full principal protection, subject to the credit risk of the issuer, even if the market is down at the note's maturity. Principal-at-risk notes offer no principal protection, and an investor can lose some or all of their invested principal at maturity. A structured note will result in loss of principal if the reference asset declines by more than the stated buffer or barrier level, either at maturity, or on a scheduled observation date. Structured notes are classified as senior unsecured debt and are therefore subject to the risk of default. They lack liquidity, are not listed on securities exchanges, and do not participate in dividends. Typically, the issuer will maintain a secondary market; but there is no obligation to do so. Therefore, there may be little to no secondary market available. To the extent a secondary market may exist, a sale in the secondary market prior to maturity may result in a significant discount in the sale price of the note resulting in a loss of principal. Structured notes are also subject to credit and call risks. The credit risk involves a situation where, if the issuer were to default on its payment obligations, you may not receive any amount owed under the structured note and you could lose your entire principal investment. Certain notes may be callable automatically or at the option of the issuer. If a note is called, the investor will not receive any interest payments that would have been payable for the remainder of the term of the note. Depending on the nature of the linked asset or index, the market risk of the structured note may include changes in equity or commodity prices, changes in interest rates or foreign exchange rates, or market volatility. After issuance, structured notes may not be re-sold on a daily basis and thus may be difficult to value given their complexity.

There are no legal or disciplinary events material to a client's or prospective client's evaluation of LFG.

Item 10 Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Insurance Product Recommendations

Through our affiliate Legato Insurance Group, Inc. dba Legato Financial Group, Inc. ("Legato Insurance"), our financial representatives can sell other products or provide services outside of their role as investment adviser representatives with us.

Due to the firm's financial planning philosophy, it is common for our financial professionals to recommend that clients use insurance products (for example, a fixed index annuity) as part of a client's overall financial plan in lieu of separately managed accounts (specifically, in lieu of cash and fixed income asset classes). You should be aware that there are a number of conflicts of interests that are present due to our planning philosophy and recommendations to use insurance products in this nature.

Our financial professionals that are registered as investment adviser representatives spend approximately 20% of their time on insurance sales and services and 80% of their time on investment advisory services. You may therefore work with your financial professional in both their capacity as an investment adviser representative of LFG, as well as in their capacity as an insurance agent through our affiliate Legato Insurance. As such, your LFG financial professional is both an IAR and an insurance agent and may advise you to purchase insurance products (general disability insurance, life insurance, annuities, and other insurance products). Your LFG financial professional may then assist you in implementing that advice by offering you those same products through Legato Insurance. For the reasons described below, this creates a variety of conflicts of interest that you should be aware of.

- Commissions: The receipt of a commission provides a variety of incentives for Legato Insurance and our shared financial professionals to recommend insurance products. For example, your financial professional will earn a larger upfront commission the more assets are invested in an annuity, providing an economic incentive to recommend that you purchase an annuity over placing those assets in a brokerage or advisory account, which may provide lower total compensation. Our financial professional could also be incentivized to recommend a product that pays a commission now versus an advisory product that pays fees over a longer period of time. As an example, all other variables held equal, a 5% commission paid by an insurance company upon sale of a $100,000 annuity product may be more attractive to a financial professional than a one percent (1%) advisory fee charged on a $100,000 account paid over a period of five (5) years despite the overall pre-tax compensation paid to the financial professional being equal. Note that some products pay a higher street or bonus commission than others, increasing this incentive and creating an economic incentive to favor higher fee-paying products.
- Additional Compensation: Legato Insurance, its affiliates, and our shared financial professionals also receive additional compensation or incentives in the form of bonus commissions, gifts, meals or entertainment, reimbursement for training, marketing, education, advertising, or travel expenses associated with sponsored conferences or events. The exact compensation cannot be accurately calculated at the time of recommendation because they depend on sales goals, but you should be aware that there are a variety of forms of indirect compensation paid by carriers and insurance marketing organizations, and this compensation creates a conflict of interest.
- In addition, each of the individual insurance carriers that our financial professionals work with may separately provide incentive-based bonuses or awards in exchange for sales-related production over specific periods of time, which is a conflict of interest. They may also provide indirect compensation by providing marketing assistance, business development tools, technology, back office or operations support, business succession planning, business conferences, and incentive trips. These incentive programs do not directly affect fees paid by the client. Although some of these services can benefit a client, other services obtained by our IARs such as marketing assistance, business development, and incentive trips, will not benefit an existing client and is a conflict of interest.
- At times, our financial professionals receive expense reimbursement for travel or marketing expenses from distributors of investment or insurance products. Travel expense reimbursements are a result of attendance at due diligence or investment training events hosted by product sponsors. Marketing expense reimbursements are the result of informal expense sharing arrangements in which product sponsors will underwrite costs incurred for marketing, such as client appreciation events, advertising, publishing, and seminar expenses. Although receipt of these travel and marketing expense reimbursements are not predicated upon specific sales quotas, the product sponsor reimbursements are made by those sponsors for which sales have been made or for which it is anticipated sales will be made. This creates a conflict of interest in that there is an incentive to recommend certain products and investments based on the receipt of this compensation regardless of what is in the best interest of clients.

- Exchanges & Replacement Recommendations: Your financial professional may recommend that you exchange or replace an existing annuity with a new annuity if they believe it is appropriate. You should be aware that when an exchange or replacement is made, Legato Insurance and the financial professional receive additional commission in the form of commissions, bonuses, or other additional compensation described above. You may also incur a surrender charge on the old annuity. The new purchase may also be subject to the commencement of a new surrender period, lose existing benefits, such as accumulated value, death, living, or other contractual benefits, or be subject to increased fees or additional charges for riders and similar product enhancements.
- Other Issues: Legato Insurance uses the services of a third-party insurance marketing organization ("IMO") to select the appropriate product for our clients. The purpose of the IMO is to assist Legato Insurance in finding the insurance product that best fits the client's situation, although the IMO and insurance carrier may also offer special bonus or incentive compensation to Legato Insurance and our investment adviser representatives when they act in their separate capacities as insurance agents when they meet certain overall sales goals by placing annuities or other insurance products through the IMO. This creates a conflict of interest for Legato Insurance and our financial professionals in utilizing the products recommended by the IMO.

The sale of commission-based products is supervised by the firm's President, and the firm makes periodic reviews of Legato Insurance's insurance recommendations to ensure that our financial professionals act in accordance with our fiduciary duty. If you have any questions or concerns about annuity recommendations made during the financial planning process, we encourage you to immediately bring them to the attention of the President or the CCO.

Finally, you should be aware that there are other insurance products that are offered by other insurance agents other than those recommended by our financial professionals. You are under no obligation to implement any insurance or annuity transaction through Legato Insurance.

Tax and Accounting Solutions

LFG is related through common ownership and control to Legato CPAs and Advisors, PLLC, which prepares and files federal income tax returns, and applicable tax returns for the state and local taxing authorities in which individuals declare residency. Certain LFG officers and employees act in a separate capacity for this entity. Because of the affiliated nature, referral to Legato CPAs and Advisors, PLLC presents a conflict of interest as both firms have an economic incentive to refer clients to each other as opposed to other tax providers. It is important that you know that when the services of Legato CPAs and Advisors, PLLC are recommended, you are never obligated or required to use their services. There are other tax preparation firms that offer similar services, and those services may be available for less expensive rates. You are encouraged to consider other tax preparers as well.

Item 11 Code of Ethics, Participation or Interest in Client Transactions, and Personal Trading

Code of Ethics Summary

LFG has established a Code of Ethics that applies to all of its supervised persons. As a fiduciary, it is an investment adviser's responsibility to provide fair and full disclosure of all material facts and always to act solely in the best interest of each of our clients. This fiduciary duty is considered the core underlying principle for our Code of Ethics, which also covers our Personal Securities Transactions Policies and Procedures.

LFG is responsible for ensuring that the interests of all clients are placed ahead of its own investment interests. LFG will disclose material facts along with potential and actual conflicts of interest to clients. LFG seeks to conduct business in an honest, ethical, and fair manner and will take reasonable steps to avoid circumstances that might negatively affect our duty of loyalty to clients.

In accordance with these duties and applicable rules and regulations, LFG has adopted a code of ethics to:

- Set forth standards of conduct expected of all supervised persons (including compliance with federal securities laws);
- Safeguard material non-public information about client transactions; and
- Require “access persons” to report their personal securities transactions. In addition, the activities of an investment adviser and its personnel must comply with the broad antifraud provisions of Section 206 of the Advisers Act.

Clients may receive a complete copy of the Code of Ethics upon request, including by contacting us at the telephone number on the cover page of this Brochure.

Affiliate and Employee Personal Securities Transactions Disclosure

At times, LFG or associated persons of the firm will buy or sell for their personal accounts, investment products identical to those recommended to clients. In some instances, such transactions by LFG or associated persons of the firm will be executed at the same time a transaction in the identical investment product recommended to clients is executed. This creates a conflict of interest. It is the express policy of LFG that all people associated in any manner with our firm must place clients’ interests ahead of their own when implementing personal investments. LFG and its associated persons will not buy or sell securities for their personal account(s) where their decision is derived, in whole or in part, from information obtained as a result of employment or association with our firm unless the information is also available to the investing public upon reasonable inquiry.

To mitigate conflicts of interest, we have developed written supervisory procedures that include personal investment and trading policies for our representatives, employees, and their immediate family members (collectively, “Associated Persons”).

Any Associated Person not observing our policies is subject to sanctions up to and including termination.

Item 12 Brokerage Practices

Your assets must be maintained in an account at a “qualified custodian,” generally a broker-dealer or bank. In recognition of the value of the services the custodian provides, you may pay higher commissions or trading costs than those that may be available elsewhere.

LFG seeks to recommend a custodian that will hold your assets and execute transactions on terms that are the most favorable overall compared to other available providers and their services, i.e., best execution. Best execution does not necessarily mean that clients receive the lowest possible commission costs but that the qualitative execution is best. In other words, all conditions considered, the transaction execution is in your best interest. When considering best execution, we consider a number of factors other than prices and rates including, but not limited to:

- Execution capabilities (e.g., market expertise; ease, reliability, and timeliness of execution; responsiveness; integration with our existing systems; and ease of monitoring investments);
- Products and services offered (e.g., investment programs, back-office services, technology, regulatory compliance assistance, and research and analytic services);
- Financial strength, stability, and responsibility;
- Reputation and integrity;
- Ability to maintain confidentiality; and
- Existing relationship and experience with our firm and our other clients.

Brokerage Recommendations

To use our asset management services, LFG will require that you establish or maintain a brokerage account with Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services or its affiliate, National Financial Services, LLC (collectively “Fidelity”) or Altruist Financial LLC (“Altruist”). Fidelity and Altruist are members of FINRA and SIPC. Fidelity and Altruist are independent and unaffiliated registered broker-dealers, will act solely in their broker-dealer capacity and not as an investment adviser to you, and are chosen by LFG to maintain custody of clients' assets and effect trades for their accounts. Fidelity and Altruist have no discretion over your account and will act solely on instructions they receive from LFG.

The primary factor in suggesting a broker-dealer or custodian is that the services of the recommended firm are provided in a cost-effective manner. Although quality of execution at the best price is an important determinant, best execution does not necessarily mean lowest price, and it is not the sole consideration. The trading process of any broker-dealer and third-party manager chosen or suggested by LFG must be efficient, seamless, and straightforward. Overall custodial support services, trade correction services, and statement preparation are some of the other factors determined when suggesting a broker-dealer.

Fidelity and Altruist provide us with access to their institutional trading and custody services, which are typically not available to retail investors. Their services include brokerage, custody, research, and access to mutual funds and other investments that are otherwise generally available only to institutional investors or would require a significantly higher minimum initial investment.

We compensate Fidelity and Altruist for their custodial services with a portion of the fee that we charge you. They offer certain securities, including specified equities, mutual funds and exchange-traded funds, on a no-transaction-fee basis. To the extent purchases or sales of securities in your account qualify for no-transaction-fee pricing, they do not reduce the fee assessed to LFG for custodial services, and LFG does not lower the investment advisory fee charged to you.

Fidelity and Altruist also commonly make other products and services available to many, if not all, investment advisers like LFG that are not always available to retail investors. These products and services may benefit us but may not benefit our clients' accounts. Some of these other products and services assist us in managing and administering client accounts. These include software and other technology that:

- Provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmation and account statements).
- Facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts).
- Provide research, pricing information, and other market data.
- Facilitate payment of our fees from client accounts.
- Assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping, and client reporting.

Many of these services generally may be used to service all or a substantial number of our accounts, regardless of where those accounts are maintained. Fidelity and Altruist also make available other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business. Again, Fidelity and Altruist commonly make these products and services available to many, if not all, investment advisers. These services may include:

- Educational conference and events.
- Consulting, publications and conferences on practice management.
- Information technology.
- Business succession and transition assistance.
- Regulatory compliance.
- Marketing consulting and support.
- Assistance with client paperwork and other items related to transitions to LFG.

In addition, Fidelity and Altruist may make available, arrange, or pay for these types of services rendered to us by independent or related third parties. These additional benefits may be provided at no cost to LFG or you.

As a fiduciary, we endeavor to act in your best interest. Our recommendation that you maintain your assets in accounts at Fidelity or Altruist will be based in part on the benefit to us in the availability of some of the foregoing products and services and not solely on the nature, cost, or quality of custody and brokerage services provided by Fidelity and Altruist. This creates a conflict of interest.

Brokerage for Client Referrals

LFG does not receive client referrals from broker-dealers in exchange for cash or other compensation, such as brokerage services or research.

Directed Brokerage

Clients should understand that not all IARs require the use of a particular broker-dealer or custodian. Some IARs allow their clients to select whichever broker-dealer the client decides. By requiring clients to use a particular broker-dealer, LFG may not achieve the most favorable execution of client transactions and the practice requiring the use of specific broker-dealers may cost clients more money than if the client used a different broker-dealer or custodian. However, for compliance and operational efficiencies, LFG has decided to require our clients to use broker-dealers and other qualified custodians chosen by LFG.

Soft Dollar Benefits

Except as described above, LFG does not receive “soft dollar” benefits, which are research products or services in exchange for commissions generated by transactions in client accounts.

Block Trading Policy

With respect to our asset management services, we may elect to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. This process is referred to as aggregating orders, batch trading, or block trading, which we use when we believe it may prove advantageous to clients. If and when we aggregate client orders, allocating securities among client accounts is done on a fair and equitable basis. Typically, the process of aggregating client orders is done to achieve better execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates, or to allocate orders among clients on a more equitable basis to avoid differences in prices and transaction fees or other transaction costs that might be obtained when orders are placed independently.

In the event an order is only partially filled, the shares will be allocated to participating accounts in a fair and equitable manner, typically in proportion to the size of each client's order.

Accounts owned by our firm or persons associated with our firm may participate in block trading with your accounts, but they will not be given preferential treatment.

We do not block trade for non-discretionary accounts. Accordingly, non-discretionary accounts may pay different costs than discretionary accounts pay. If you enter into non-discretionary arrangements with our firm, we may not be able to buy and sell the same quantities of securities for you and as a result you may pay higher commissions, fees, or transaction costs than clients who enter into discretionary arrangements with our firm.

Item 13 Review of Accounts

Your financial professional will monitor your accounts on an ongoing basis and will conduct account reviews at least annually or upon client request to ensure the advisory services provided to you are consistent with your investment needs and objectives. Additional reviews may be conducted based on various circumstances, including, but not limited to:

- contributions and withdrawals,
- market moving events,
- security specific events, and
- changes in your risk-return objectives.

Written reports will be provided upon your request. These may contain relevant account or market-related information such as an inventory of account holdings and account performance. You will receive trade confirmations and monthly or quarterly statements from your account custodian(s).

Item 14 Client Referrals and Other Compensation

LFG does not currently compensate any person for client referrals.

Refer to Item 12 Brokerage Practices for disclosures on research and other benefits LFG may receive resulting from LFG's relationship with your account custodian.

As disclosed in Item 10 Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations, persons providing investment advice on behalf of LFG are licensed insurance agents.

Item 15 Custody

Custody means having access or control over client funds or securities. Custody is not limited to physically holding client funds and securities. LFG does not and will not have physical custody of any of your funds or securities. Your funds and securities will be held with a bank, broker-dealer, or other qualified custodian.

Nonetheless, if an investment adviser has the ability to access or control client funds or securities, the investment adviser is deemed to have custody and must ensure proper procedures are implemented. Authorization to trade in client accounts is not deemed by regulators to be custody.

LFG is also deemed to have custody of client funds and securities because our firm is given the authority to have fees deducted directly from client accounts. LFG is also deemed to have custody of client funds because we allow Standing Letters of Authorization on client accounts.

For accounts in which LFG is deemed to have custody, we have established procedures to ensure all client funds and securities are held at a qualified custodian in a separate account for each client under that client's name. Clients, or an independent representative of the client, will direct, in writing, the establishment of all accounts and therefore are aware of the qualified custodian's name, address, and the manner in which the funds or securities are maintained.

Finally, account statements are delivered directly from the qualified custodian to each client, or the client's independent representative, at least quarterly. The account statements from your custodian(s) will indicate the amount of advisory fees deducted from your accounts each billing period. Clients should carefully review those statements and are urged to compare the statements against any reports or other information received from LFG. If you have questions about your account statements, you should contact us or the qualified custodian preparing the statement.

Item 16 Investment Discretion

When providing asset management services, LFG maintains trading authorization over your account(s) and provides management services on a discretionary basis. Discretionary authority is granted through the execution of a limited power of attorney contained in the custodian's paperwork and the execution of an Investment Advisory Agreement with LFG. We have the authority to determine the type and number of securities that will be bought or sold for your portfolio without obtaining your consent for each transaction. Nonetheless, you will have the ability to place reasonable restrictions on the types of investments purchased in your account.

If you enter into non-discretionary arrangements with LFG, your approval will be obtained prior to the execution of any transactions for your accounts. You have an unrestricted right to decline to implement any advice provided by LFG on a non-discretionary basis.

Item 17 Voting Client Securities

LFG does not vote proxies on behalf of clients. Therefore, it is your responsibility to vote all proxies for securities held in your account(s). You will receive proxies directly from the qualified custodian or transfer agent; we will not provide you with the proxies. If you have a question about a particular proxy, feel free to contact the custodian or transfer agent directly.

Item 18 Financial Information

Item 18 is not applicable to LFG because we do not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client six months or more in advance. Therefore, we are not required to include a balance sheet for the most recent fiscal year. We are not subject to a financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to clients. Finally, LFG has not been the subject of a bankruptcy petition at any time.
