The CCWS General Meeting on Tuesday, September 30, features local acclaimed artist and CCWS member on the use of washes in watercolor painting.

"As a lifelong Central Coast resident, I draw much of my inspiration from the area's stunning coastal landscapes and the creative energy of local artists like you. In painting watercolor, I try to explore light, shadow, and spontaneity, while embracing the medium's fluid nature.

"I'm an active member of several local art groups, with original pieces featured in area galleries and businesses. I've been honored to exhibit in juried shows such as Aquarius and Beacon. Some of my favorite artists include Adrienne Pavelka, Nita Engle, Dan Marshall, and Michael Reardon for their humble yet dramatic approaches.”

Join us for this rare chance to peek behind the scenes into Jay’s wonderful, fluid approach.

Presentation at 1:30, SLO UMC Wesley Room, 1515 Fredericks St., SLO.
