

Painting Palm Trees

With Stacy Weed

We do love our palm trees here in California, especially near the coast— and CCWS member Stacy Weed has developed her painting skills to capture their elegant branches in various ways. Join us for her demo and presentation at our FREE monthly meeting, sure to be fun and instructive!

About the Artist

An international award-winning artist, Stacy is an Atascadero resident and enjoys capturing the diverse local landscapes with watercolor. The plentiful vineyards and picturesque coastlines of the California Central Coast provide endless inspiration. Whether painting plein air or from her photos, getting the paint to accurately portray the beauty of her subjects is the ultimate goal.

Originally trained as a chemist, Stacy finds watching the pigments diffuse, blend, and repel each other, fascinating. The unpredictability of the medium is an enjoyable challenge that fills most of her spare time as an empty nester. When she's not gardening or playing with grandkids, she can be found sitting at her easel.

She is a Signature Member of the Central Coast Watercolor Society and an active member of the Morro Bay Art Association.
