A Well boys I hate to leave good company But my D baby just called me on the A D phone And from the sound of her voice I A simply have no choice I left something E A turned on at home Well, I just put a quarter in the jukebox And it ain't halfway through my favorite song But if I don't leave right now, my whole place might burn down 'Cause I left something turned on at home	Chorus D It ain't the stove, it ain't the heater A She's hotter and a whole lot sweeter E And all day long she's been there alone Right D now her arms are open, the A house is probably smokin' 'Cause I left something E A turned on at home	Hey waitress, could you cancel that order But if It's too late I'll take it to go Boys, I gotta run 'fore somebody calls 911 'Cause I left something turned on at home Chorus + Right now her arms are open, the house is probably smokin' 'Cause I left something turned on at home Yeah, I left something turned on at home
