Down the street you can hear her scream          "You're a disgrace" As she slams the door in his drunken face And now he stands outside          And all the neighbors start to gossip and drool          He cries "Oh, girl, you must be mad What happened to the sweet love you and me had?"          Against the door he leans and starts a scene          And his tears fall and burn the garden green [Chorus]          And so castles made of sand fall in the sea eventually	A little Indian brave who before he was ten          Played war games in the woods with his Indian friends          And he built a dream that when he grew up          He would be a fearless warrior Indian Chief          Many moons passed, and more the dream grew strong until          Tomorrow he would sing his first war song and fight his first battle          But something went wrong,          surprise attack killed him in his sleep that night [Chorus]          And so castles made of sand melts into the sea eventually	There was a young girl whose heart was a frown          Because she was crippled for life          And she couldn't speak a sound          And she wished and prayed she could stop living          So she decided to die          She drew her wheelchair to the edge of the shore          And to her legs she smiled          you won't hurt me no more          But then a sight she'd never seen made her jump and say          Look a golden winged ship is passing my way          And it really didn't have to stop, it just kept on going [Chorus]          And so castles made of sand melts into the sea eventually
