A visually stunning documentary-like feature of unique people from around the world that travel to dangerous places and do extraordinary things that none of us will ever do.

Possessing intense drive and most times stronger than their reasoning but nothing will stop them from accomplishing their next mission. It's an elite group of teams highly prized by the anonymous contributors that place enormous wagers hoping their FANTASTICAL TEAM will win the next mission.

The film is partially narrated and safely brokered by JACK, who put this all together five years ago when he missed a jump and landed in a wheelchair. Jack ensures the funds are always safely delivered and never used or sidetracked to fund terrorism or wars or anything illegal.

These huge donations fund important projects like saving the planet, protecting the species, finding cures for diseases, and cleaning the planet and the oceans. It is the single most effective effort this world has ever seen, it's a big effort with a little bit of sport which makes the wagers huge!

Calculating every possible scenario, the teams are serious and understand the dedication it takes to reach the next level. How to ignite all their sense of intuition, their vision, and strategic bravery...they are all in.

It's not just about thrill-seeking anymore, it's become much bigger, much more important to the world. They use their missions to change and fix the world, the more dangerous the climb, the jump, or dive brings in huge donations for these causes and they will do anything to win!

These amazing athletes live fantastical lives. Not only do they push their human limits to be the best they can be, but they also raise billions of dollars that bring relief and awareness in many areas of great need in this fantastical world.
