

Senior Transitions

Saying goodbye to a home is rarely easy; especially for senior citizens. Leaving their home is an emotional and tactical challenge. Our goal is to make their move as stress-free as possible. We act as their ambassador, connecting them to people and services that will alleviate logistical concerns as they prepare to move on. Seniors need to be comfortable to grieve, plan, make decisions and focus on what's ahead, with minimal worry. We can help.

Senior citizens may not know where to start when it comes to selling their home. We understand there is so much to be considered in this process. We will engage and advise them in the real estate part, while helping get things in place to make the transition as easy as possible.

"When is a good time to sell?" "Should we leave the furniture behind to make the house look better?" "Who will turn on the furnace if it gets cold?" "Who will cut the grass if we aren't there?" We will help them plan, so they can be comfortable and make the best decisions for themselves.

Do they need movers and/or packers? How about a cleaning person? Do they have things they want to sell ahead of moving? Our Resource Network is one they can rely on.

We want our clients to rest easy in the knowledge things are being handled properly and done right. It's important they are heard and can find peace, instead of angst, at this pivotal time in their lives.

Our mission is to empower seniors to make the best moving decisions for them, while allowing them to unload much of the weight of the transition on us. Most importantly, we will work tirelessly to ensure they feel supported and equipped to complete the task at hand, and are satisfied as can be, when the moving process is complete.

Peg Harbaugh, Broker/Owner

563-580-6607

Peg@CoxSpringsRealty.com

www.CoxSpringsRealty.com

