APRIL GROUP CLASS - SWING

Group Classes are a great way to practice leading and following skills. Classes are conducted in a workshop format so that by the end of the month you will not only have learned the steps to the dance, you will also have usable choreography for a social dance setting.

Tuesdays - April 3, 10, 17, 24

7:00-8:00pm

$60 for the month

No partner necessary. Lots of fun!

THE FOUR STAGES OF BALLROOM DANCE ADDICTION - Miss P., Dance Comp Review

Stage 1 – Not sure what it is, but I'll give it a try...

Dancing generally starts out the same for everyone:

- You've decided to learn a few steps so you don't look like Napoleon Dynamite in dance clubs.

- Your crush likes to dance, so you think that if you know how to dance too, You're In!

- You found a Groupon deal online for lessons at studio near your house.

It is almost impossible to predict what happens next, but the but the understanding that this is different from everything else you have done starts right after your first lesson.

One sign of emerging ballroom dance addiction is when everyone you meet, all of a sudden, find out that you dance, and knows everything about your dance experiences In Extreme Detail! The grocery store clerk, every cab driver, flight attendants, and yes, even the traffic cop who pulled you over because you accelerated while listening to Viennese Waltz music in your car. Talking about dancing gives you almost as much of a high as dancing does. And you love it!

You also start planning your life to minimize any possibility of missing lessons and dance events. If you skip anything in your regular dance schedule, you feel just a bit of nausea until you get back to it. While all of these are strong signs, the absolute fool-proof indication of early ballroom addiction is when you have more dance shoes than street shoes!

Stage 2 to follow.
